One needs extra room where the food accumulates. We really had a ball and the Stirling club also took part in the program. Flor- MacMullen contributed two popular readings and dis ole Scribe told a few bedtime stories.

Last Thursday we met as usual in the cl[illegible] 100% [illegible] were playing as men - Iva Ayrhart, Amy Schram; Mary Cook and Mabel Brooks.

New hall sought

Stirling Co-operative Nursery School reported to the Hastings County Board of Education, at a recent meeting in Madoc, the need for a new location.

Mrs. Charles Staples, Chairman of the school committee, said classes have been conducted in St. Paul's United Church in the village for the past year, three morning as week. Self-supported, the nursery school has been looking after 16 children with an expected enrolment in September of nearly 20 children. The youngsters range in age from 3 to 5.

The program has received co-operation from George Patton, principal of the Stirling Schools and from Loyalist College.

Donald Williams, chairman of the board, said that with completion of the new senior elementary school now under construction in the village, there might be an extra room available.

This ceremony will be of special interest to the residents of Prince Edward County and Hastings County since the main trail of 235 miles runs through the two counties.

Loyalist offering counsellor course

Starting in September, Loyalist College will offer a new program to train Counsellors for the mentally retarded. The College, working in cooperation with the Department of Health at Prince Edward Heights in Picton, has developed a new two-year work-study curriculum under which students will receive their academic training at the college and their applied training at the recently established Prince Edward Heights complex.

Prince Edward Heights, a facility run by the Department of Health for the mentally retarded, represents an innovation in caring for and working with the mentally retarded. The facility is located at the former army base in Picton, and the residents live in separate housing units which simulate a home environment. Such an approach is designed to help the mentally retarded adjust to and operate in an atmosphere of normal human relationships.

The College has been supplying only the academic portion of the Department of Health program for the past year, but the entire program is now the responsibility of the college. Approximately 60 students will be recruited for the program, making it one of the largest at Loyalist. Upon graduation, students will be certified as Mental Retardation Counsellors and may seek employment at any of the facilities in Ontario which deal with the mentally retarded.

Only six or seven of the 20 community colleges in Ontario have been given permission to operate such programs. Loyalist's early involvement with the Department of Health program has put the college in the forefront of this new development.

The first two semesters of the two-year program, September to April, are mainly academic with a heavy emphasis on psychology. The months of May, June, and July will be spent interning at Prince Edward Heights. During the third semester, September to December, time will be shared between Prince Edward Heights and the college.

Service for peace held near Madoc

On a hilltop site overlooking Trans-Canada Highway No. 7, one hundred and thirty persons, the majority of whom were young people, regardless of age, shared in the 6th Annual Service for Peace, conducted by Rev. Douglas Heard, B.A., B.D., at the Lester B. Pearson Peace Park on July 2.

Under a sunny sky (one of the few fine days this year) the outdoor ceremony started with a Journey of Remembrance from the entrance gate, led by District Commissioner, Ernest E. Harvey, Boy Scout Association of Canada, including boy and girl scouts from the district who later raised the four flags, Canadian, British, United States and Japanese, around the Peace Pagoda Shrine, followed by two minutes of silence in memory of Canada's war dead.

Speaking on "Church Renewal and Peace," Rev. J. Berkley Reynolds, M.Th., Toronto, challenged his listeners to accept the way of Christ in their daily lives, aside from the ritual of the church and be re-dedicated to the principle of peace, not only for themselves, but for all mankind. "Only in this way can the church be renewed. It is up to individuals like you and I. There is no other way."

The guests were introduced by Roy Cadwell, Chairman of the park who also gave the annual report. They were: Reeve Barbara Allen, Tweed; Major Carl Hubel, Commanding Officer, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment; President Harold Vaughen, Canadian Legion, Belleville; Treasurer Roy Dulmeg, District "F"; Howard Dinnick, Toronto, co-sponsor of the Mother's Shrine; Oscar Thurston, Sargeant at Arms, Tweed conducted the guests to the platform which was built last year by the Hi-C Group of West Ellesmere United Church. Other guests in the audience included Mr. Harries Jenkins, President of Tweed Senior Citizens and Rev. and Mrs. J. Leslie Dean, Belleville.

Howard Dinnick accepted the Man of the Year Peace Award on behalf of John Robarts, this year's winner, for presentation to Mr. Robarts in Toronto. Priscilla Cadwell read the peace park message from the Prime Minister of Canada. Guest soloist, Mrs. Dorothy Goode, St. James Anglican Church, Tweed, sang "Bless This House."

The ceremony ended with O Canada and prayers for peace. Gordon Pigden, producer of Madoc's cable TV, took pictures of the ceremony.

Following the service everyone took part in the annual, "Peace Park Fair" activities including the discussion on the "Illusions of Youth," conducted by Dr. Winifred Barton of the PSI Centre. Among those attending were seven young people from the PSI Science Centre, Winnipeg; Lisa Hossack, co-ordinator of Servas Canada, an international goodwill organization, Toronto; Mildred Zinnman, Stanford, Connecticut; and visitors from Quebec. Phil Rivers, Madoc, auctioned off the pies, cakes and cookies in the baking contests.

A highlight of the afternoon activities was a watermelon eating contest which was won by Carl Qyillmette, Ottawa. All contestants received medallions of the provinces. Hi-Fi equipment was provided by Mr. Byers, Belleville.

Winners of the baking contest were Mrs. Ellen Curtis, apple sauce cake; Mrs. Mabel Cournoyea, lemon pie; Mrs. Priscilla Cadwell, bran muffins; and Mrs. Melba Moore, connamon buns.

After the activities, a picnic lunch was served in the park, including a special refreshment table for veterans.

HASTINGS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION FINANCIAL REPORT

AUDITORS REPORT

TO THE SUPPORTERS OF THE HASTINGS COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

We have examined the Revenue Fund and Capital Fund Balance Sheets of The Hastings County Board of Education as at December 31, 1971 and the Revenue Fund Statement of Revenue and Expenditure and Statement of Source and Application of Capital Funds for the year then ended. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Board as at December 31, 1971 and the results of its operations and the source and application of its capital funds for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario School Boards applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Comment

The response to the recently completed Spot the Merchants contest, sponsored jointly by The News-Argus and a number of merchants, showed what can be accomplished when businessmen work together.

Toward the end of the six-week campaign, the contest box in the newspaper office scarcely would hold the flood of entry forms turned in.

The rules were simple, there was no price tag, yet there was enough challenge to evoke a very gratifying response.

Based on this experience, we are certain that the local Chamber of Commerce would be well rewarded for organizing similar promotions. People will shop where they are made to feel wanted.

****

Every community has its builders. The late William C. West was such a man.

In addition to operating a business, he found time to serve as a village councillor for four years, reeve for 13 years and as warden of Hastings County for a one-year term.

Mr. West worked quietly and shunned the limelight. Men of his stature often do just that.

Where was the Chamber of Commerce when it came to setting local store hours over the past weekend? With no statement from the Chamber, it was left for every businessman to establish his own holiday hours. The result was that some stayed open Saturday while others closed. Perhaps the shopping public does not mind this system, but we suspect it would be better for business if everyone pulled together.

On Monday evening, June 30th, several members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Sunday School gathered in the church parlors to bid farewell to two of its popular and faithful members, Miss Jean McIntosh and Mr. Jack Hermiston, who are leaving the fold and beginning new lives for themselves away from home. A short impromptu programme of readings and musical numbers was given. Mr. Harper Rollins, former Superintendent of St. Andrew's, in a few well-chosen words presented Jean and Jack each with a pen and pencil set. Jean and Jack replied very graciously. Several members made short speeches of regret at losing them from the church and Sunday school and also of best wishes for their future. A delicious lunch and social time together brought to a close a very memorable evening.

On Tuesday evening, June 24th, the pupils and their parents of S.S. No. 11 Rawdon gathered at the school house to spend a social evening with their teacher, Miss Eunice Davis, before her departure from their midst.

During the evening an address was read by Glenn Ray and George Knight presented Miss Davis with a boudoir lamp on behalf of those present. A number of the ladies and gentlemen gave short speeches after which a bountiful lunch was served topped off by oranges and lemonade.

All left for their homes after wihing Miss Davis all success in her new school, near Peterborough.

Mr. C. H. Winter has sold his property at the south of the village to Mrs. DeLong, of Ottawa. The place is now occupied by her daughter, Mrs. S. D. Ward. Mr. Winter and family have moved into the house formerly occupied by Mr. G. E. Kennedy, on Church street.

The county road men have been doing a good job on Front street from Mr. Morden Bird's corner westward as far as Mr. B. Bush's. They have graded the road and laid on a coat of broken stone, which will make a good road of what was before about the worst in the town. West of Mr. Bush's the road has not been graded but is being coated with stone.

The garden party given by the ladies of St. John's church last evening on the grounds of Col. Hollwell, was a grand success in every particular. The lawn was very handsomely decorated and the different booths were fitted up in a most attractive manner. There was a large attendance, and the proceeds, we understand, amounted to $120.00. The Frankford band furnished good music.

*****

After the Preparatory service in St. Andrew's church on Thursday evening a pleasant surprise was given the pastor, Rev. F. A. Robinson, B.A., as he was about to leave on July 1st to spend his vacation in England and the continent, with an address, commending his zeal for their welfare and his work for the Master's cause. The address, which was accompanied by a sum of money, wished him a pleasant voyage and a safe return. On Friday evening following, at the close of the lawn social at West Huntingdon, the congregation there also made him a presentation of a sum of money.

A Weekly Meditation

WHAT IS A CHRISTIAN?
By D. C. TYRER
Grace Chapel

Judge Shannon Charlton was faced with this question one day in an Iowa court and after much consideration refused to attempt a definition.

But what is a Christian? We live in what is known as a Christian country and we may come from a Christian home and belong to a Christian church, but that doesn't make us Christians. Although the word Christian only occurs three times in the Bible it simply means "Christ's ones" or one who belongs to Christ. A person is a Christian by persuasion (Acts 26:28) "Then Agrippa said unto Paul, almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian."

You must be persuaded of some vital facts laid down clearly in scripture, three of which I would like to consider. Firstly you are a sinner and that you are lost, "For all have sinned and come short of the glory of God." Secondly you can do nothing to save yourself, Titus 3,5 tells us that its, "not by works of reighteousness which we have done, but the according to His mercy he saved us by the washing of regeneration and renewing of the Holy Ghost." Thirdly Jesus Christ can save you for He is the one who came to seek and to save that which was lost.

When we by faith receive the Lord Jesus Christ as our saviour as recorded in John 1:12, "But as many as received Him, to them gave he power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on his name." We will be able to say with confidence "I belong to Christ for I have received Him as my Saviour." A Christian is one in whom by faith Christ dwells. A Christian will manifest a new disposition and a new objective in life.

"Therefore if any man be in Christ, he is a new creature, old things are passed away, behold, all things are become new" II Cor. 5:17.

Are you a Christian? Let us give it some honest thought - meditation!

The possible dream....

Not long ago, I met a Windsor gardener with a dream.

It goes back to his childhood on the Island of Jersey off the coast of France where, at the age of eight, he started making compost and hauling it in his father's pony cart.

For most of his 23 years in Canada, he has done his best to buck the trend to chemical soil conditioners and fertilizers and promote the use of organic compost. Garbage, sewage, wood chips, dead leaves -- they're all the raw materials for making things grow as far as he's concerned.

And in his opinion, these raw materials are being wasted. "Our wealth is flowing down a one-way street," he insisted. "Pretty soon we'll all be forced to look towards re-using what we are now wasting."

He has dropped gardening now and he's going into the compost business to earn his livelihood. He thinks that 12,000 tons a year is the break-even point in production.

A lot of other men have tried to make a living in North America from making and selling compost and most of them failed.

He thinks the time for success has come as more and more people are concerned about how their food is grown.

Right now, he's composting a combination of wood chips and sewage sludge. "It has every trace element you need in plant foods," he said.

It takes him 12 weeks to break down the compost for use, he said, and the Board of Health checks his operation regularly.

He said that anybody can make compost in their back yard -- just pile dead leaves, organic household garbage, and anything else biodegradable in a heap and turn it regularly for abbut three months.

For his own process, he uses a catalyst -- he won't say what it is, but that's fair enough. After all he is a businessman now.

That's why I haven't mentioned his name. I don't feel right about plugging a commercial operation, even if I like what it is doing.

All the same, I hope he makes a go of it.

Mount Pleasant

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

Miss Annie Holmes has returned home from a few weeks holidays with her nephew and niece, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Fitzgerald at Niagara Falls, New York, U.S.A. She also visited relatives at Rochester, N.Y. and her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. James Holmes, Toronto.

Several folk enjoyed a holiday over the Dominion Day weekend at their various cottages.

Mr. and Mrs. William McKee, Wooler, spent Sunday with her sister, Mrs. William McAdam and Mr. McAdam.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen and Ross Hoard were guests of Frankford Senior Citizens on Wednesday afternoon. A tea party was held at the lower Trent Valley Fish and Game Club. The group enjoyed a pot luck supper and the host group served strawberries and ice cream. Mrs. MacMullen assisted with the program and she also won first prize in the guessing contest.

Relatives from Stoney Creek, Perth and Trenton attended the Williams Auction Sale on Dominion Day. Sid and Helen are now residing in Stirling.

The May and June issue of the Country Woman magazine was mailed from the A.C.W.W. office in London, England and stamped April 28, 1972. The parcel arrived surface mail in the MacMullen mail box on June 27th. It took two months to cross the ocean and arrive at its destination.

TO MY NEIGHBOR
You came today to chat a while with me,
Fall rain was slanting dismally outside,
But we had warmth and laughter, cosily,
The fellowship shared memories can provide;
I thought: if all the women of this earth
Could somehow meet for woman-talk and tea,
What glorious understanding might have birth
And how much better this old world might be.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

APPRECIATION

The good people of Stirling and their neighbors in the surrounding area may take pride in their response to the Easter Seal Campaign and Walkathon on behalf of crippled children in this district and elsewhere in Ontario. The Easter Seal Campaign of the Rotary Club of Stirling raised a total of $1202.05, an increase over previous years. Then on May 20, over two hundred students of the Stirling Senior School and Marsh Hill School staged a ten mile Walkathon, and by their enthusiastic efforts raised a further $2579.95 for less fortunate children, a 40% increase over Walkathon 1971.

To the Principal, Ed Fleming, and the staffs of the schools who organized the Walkathon campaign in co-operation with the Rotary committee must go high praise for the successful outcome, but it is to the students, and the parents, friends, and businessmen who sponsored their efforts that the major credit must go. As a result, a total for the two campaigns, amounting to $3782.00, will be available to bring help and encouragement to crippled children who would be only too glad if they could participate in a Walkathon themselves. Well Done! And Thank You, from Rotary and the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

R.N. Smith,
Treasurer

R.R. 2, Stirling, Ont.,
July 3, 1972.

Dear Sir:

It never fails to amaze or distress me of the attitude and superiority of some adults in their dealings with children.

If it is necessary to queue up for service, either it be next in line, or a notice should be plainly posted stating "We serve adults first;" Otherwise play the game fairly.

Sincerely,
Shelby Lawrence.

MRS. C.J. YOUNG

A native of Sidney township and resident of Toronto for many years, Mrs. Caroline Jeanette Young died Monday, at the Edward St. Manor, Stirling, following a four day illness.

Daughter of the late Warren and Maria Spafford, Mrs. Young was educated in Sidney and had resided at the Edward St. Manor for the past 18 months. She was a member of St. Paul's United Church, Stirling.

Predeceased by her husband, she is survived only by a nephew, Warren Spafford of Belleville, and three nieces, Mrs. Doris Devlin of Uxbridge, Mrs. Orville (Helen) Curran of Thornbury and Jean Percival of Toronto. A sister Annie Stalker predeceased her.

The funeral was held Thursday from the Hogle Funeral Home, Stirling, with service at 11:30 a.m., conducted by Rev. John A. May. Interment was in Mt. Evergreen Cemetery, Trenton.

Spring Brook WI

The June meeting of the Spring Brook Women's Institute was held on Wednesday the 28, at the home of Mrs. Clarence McKeown, with Mrs. Gerald Burkitt and Mrs. Dickie as co-hostesses.

Mrs. Williams opened the meeting with a poem on thankfulness, followed by the singing of O Canada, the Institute Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect.

Mrs. Williams then thanked the lunch committee and the hostess for opening her home. Mrs. Barlow read the minutes of the May meeting and a short time of business followed.

Birthday wishes were extended to Mrs. Clayton Burkitt and Mrs. Annie Bateman. The collection of pennies was then taken for the pennies for friendship fund.

A short time of lively singing was then enjoyed. The roll call 'Give a resolution to benefit the community' was well answered by 20 members.

The resolution convenors, Mrs. E. Heath and Mrs. Arthur Burkitt then presented the program. Mrs. Heath gave an interesting reading on the topic 'What good is a resolution' explaining some of the benefits that had been accomplished by former resolutions.

A humorous poem was read by Mrs. Arthur Burkitt. Mrs. Bernice McKeown read a poem explaining why one farm boy left the farm. Another reading was given by Mrs. Burkitt.

The members were then divided into groups for a pie contest conducted by Mrs. Burkitt. Another contest conducted by Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy had a novelty prize. The lucky winner, Mrs. Grace Brown, received two real looking little mice.

A time of thankfulness followed with Mrs. George Williams and Mrs. Gerald Burkitt each giving an incident for which they had cause to be thankful.

Friendship cards were signed to be sent to Mrs. Jennie Meikle-John and Mrs. Florence McKeown, who are residents in the Campbellford Nursing Home.

Lunch was then served and a social time followed.

IODE Chapter holds meeting

On Thursday evening, June 22, the monthly meeting of the Hon. J. R. Cooke Chapter of the I.O.D.E. was held at the home of Miss Gena and Rosa Spry.

In the absence of the Regent, Mrs. Carl Bosiak, the vice regent, Miss Gena Spry, conducted the meeting and opened with the I.O.D.E. prayer. Mrs. Robert Burgess read the minutes of the last meeting which was approved. Mrs. Everett Cooke took over the roll call for Miss Gena Spry which was answered by ten members and four visitors.

Mrs. Edwin Warren gave the treasurer's report in the absence of Miss Rosa Spry. Mrs. Carman Fitchett gave her service secretary report. Mrs. C. Harropalso gave her education secretary report.

Miss Spry closed the meeting and all sang God Save the Queen. This is the last meeting until September. That meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Bruce Bell.

A lovely lunch was served by Mrs. Robert Burgess and Mrs. William Prest. Then the ladies all went back to help sew the quilt.

Mrs. Douglas Ackers moved a vote of thanks to Gena and Rosa Spry for opening their home for this meeting. Mrs. Acker also thanked Mrs. M. Brooks, Mrs. M. Tanner, Mrs. E. Grills, and Mrs. C. W. Duff from Belleville, for their help with the quilt.

Pollution prevention

Ontario Hydro is installing a $330,000 water treatment system to treat potential oil leaks and spills at the Lennox Generating Station new under construction near Bath, 15 miles west of Kingston, Environment Minister James Auld announced today.

Mr. Auld's Ministry recently approved the installation.

The facilities will include an oil separator, an oil flotation unit, a surge pond and two holding tanks as well as sumps, pumps and control instruments. They are to protect Lake Ontario from oil contamination and the effluent will meet the Ministry's objectives for oil in discharges to watercourses.

Mr. Auld said accidental discharge of pollution is a major concern to his Ministry. "Spills and unusual discharges of hazardous materials, such as petroleum hydrocarbons and other chemicals, to watercourses cause serious damage to the aquatic environment and are a significant contributing factor to the overall pollution load in Ontario."

He said there were 285 such discharges recorded in 1970, 19 of which were considered most serious.

Discuss research

Livestock and field crops research received most attention when the Agricultural Research Institute of Ontario scrutinized research projects at the Kemptville College of Agricultural Technology on June 26 and 27.

The Institute is an advisory body to the Minister of Agriculture and Food, under the chairmanship of Dr. R.J. McDonald, General Manager, Western Ontario Breeders' Incorporated of Woodstock. Its three - fold purpose is to inquire into and recommend programs of research in agriculture and veterinary medicine and household science and to stimulate interest in research in the production and distribution of agricultural products.

During the two-day visit, Dr. Ford Stinson, Principal of the College, and the research staff discussed their research programs in order to benefit from the practical agricultural experience

Diabetic group meets

The Quinte Branch of the Canadian Diabetic Association met on Wednesday night, June 21, at Sir John A. McDonald School, Belleville. There were 40 present despite the bad weather.

R. Shetell, president of the branch, brought the meeting to order and conducted a short business meeting. Miss Cathy Wannamaker reported that the Junior members held a Bike-a-Thon on June 24 to raise much needed funds for the Branch.

The branch is sending two senior citizens on a weeks holiday, and eight children to Camp Huronda a camp for diabetic children. This was made possible through a genorous donation from the C.N.R. Yardmen's Fund.

Special speaker for the evening was Mr. Roberts from the Toronto office. He gave a very informative, as well as interesting, talk on the main objectives of the C.D.A., which is helping the diabetic to help himself. His main message was on the children's camp. He told how well they were looked after by doctors and nurses, and their diets and insulin injections supervised.

He showed a film, on previous camps which spoke for themselves of the beauty of the surroundings.

He was thanked for his inspiring address, and pictures, by Bernard Hollinger, public relations chairman, after which coffee was served by Mrs. Furkin and her committee.

Banner tourist year expected

A banner tourism year is indicated from a survey of leading resorts and hotels which shows accommodation reservations for the coming summer up considerably over last year in all major regions.

The study, carried out by field officers of the Ministry of Industry and Tourism and released by Hon. John White, the minister, reveals these optimistic findings:

Northwestern Ontario -- reservations up about 10 per cent. Some resorts on the Winnipeg River report even increases of 50 per cent. And campgrounds which don't normally experience early reservations are getting them this year.

Northeastern Ontario -- bookings up 12 per cent. Average increases in the Sault Ste. Marie area run to 16 per cent. Cottages and hunting and fishing establishments in North Bay area show an 11 per cent increase. And Cochrane already has a sell-out for the duration of the Polar Bear Express excursion season, June 15 to Sept. 15. Parry Sound region shows a 10 per cent increase in cottages and resorts.

Central Ontario -- up six per cent in Muskoka, Huronia and Kawarthas, with lodge operators encouraged by better quality reservations and the swing back to American Plan accommodation. Campground reservations in the Kawarthas are up a startling 105 per cent, and the average increase for all types of establishments combined is about 24 per cent.

Eastern Ontario -- 10 per cent over 1971, with lodges in the Madawaska Valley region up about 20 per cent, and lodges in the Upper Ottawa, Lower Ottawa, and Captial regions on a par with last year. Reservations in the Quinte, Rideau Lakes -- 1000 Islands and Land O' Lakes regions up 11 per cent.

Land Between the Lakes -- reflects a five per cent increase. However, centres such as Kitchener, Woodstock, Guelph and Brantford which cater mostly to commercial travellers, have few reservations for the summer months.

South Central -- reports indication considerable variation in confirmed reservations according to locality. Niagara region is up about seven per cent with several hotels all sold out for the Canadian Open championship near Fort Erie. Motels in the Toronto, Burlington and other regions won't accept reservations in advance since about 90 per cent of their business is off the highway.

In general, the survey shows an upsurge in resort and hotel reservations with few cancellations, business at motels mainly similar to last year, and a trend to increased campground occupancy continuing.

School closing dates to be studied

Education Minister Thomas Wells has announced the formation of a Task Force to study the question of school closing dates and the length of the school year.

The action is the result of a decision by several school boards in the province to release elementary school students up to a week earlier than the June 30 legal closing date. On June 9 the province's school boards were notified that schools cannot be closed before June 30.

Mr. Wells said the 10-member Task Force will meet next month and submit a report which will aid in the development of a clear policy for the next school year.

Mr. Wells said that the conflict over the closing is an historic one between the secondary and elementary schools.

June has traditionally been largely a non-teaching month in the secondary schools to allow for examinations. Students who do not have to write exams have been allowed to leave school prior to the legal closing day. Elementary schools were never allowed to release students early.

Mr. Wells said that in recent years the traditional grade 13 examinations have been eliminated and other examination procedures have been modified. In addition summer schools have expanded and the community use of schools has grown which makes this an ideal time for a full review of the definition of the school year, he said.

SHOW HORSE DIES IN CRASH

IN HAPPIER DAYS

This 13-year-old show horse, ridden by her owner, Keith Bamber, Foxboro, was killed Sunday afternoon while being transported in a trailer through Stirling. The trailer came unhitched and struck a tree.

A prize-winning mare was fatally injured on Front St. W., Stirling, Sunday afternoon when the trailer in which it was being transported from the Hastings County Riders horse show at Stirling Fairgrounds became disconnected from the car hauling it and crashed into a tree.

Shan, a 13-year-old show horse, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Keith Bamber, Foxboro, died at the scene although her five-year-old colt, Shanette, riding in the same trailer, escaped serious injury.

The colt was thrown from the trailer onto the lawn of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Patterson, 200 Front Street.

The unfortunate accident occurred at a time when Mr. Bamber was planning to retire Shan, due to her age.

In the Hastings County Riders horse club, she was High Point Barrel, Pole Bending, Stock and Competitive Trail Ride Horse for 1970 as well as overall High Point Games Horse for both 1969 and 1970.

"She did everything but sleep in the house with us," Mr. Bamber is quoted as saying, following the accident.

A much-loved family pet, Shan was purchased by the Bambers about six years ago. Mr. Bamber rode a freight train with her all the way from Calgary to Toronto. He had doctored her through many illnesses and minor injuries. Mr. Bamber and Shan were frequent competitors at western gymkhana horse shows.

There was insurance on both the horse and the trailer.

Lawn bowlers plan tourney

The local Lawn Bowling Club with greens located off Gore St. will be holding a ladies tournament on Thursday, July 20th. Ten teams could be entered in this tournament.

The club which has been in existence for over 50 years has only 15 members and is looking for new Stirling and area residents interested in the sport. Mrs. Bert Woodbeck is the president of the club and Mrs. Jack Doran the secretary.

Thursday night is club night at the greens. Last Thursday night Stirling and Campbellford held a jitney or match at the local green. Wednesday night the local club will hold a potluck supper with a game after the dinner.

VETERAN ORANGEMAN HONORED AT SPRING BROOK

50 years in LOL for Fred Bateman

The regular meeting of LOL 442, Spring Brook, last Thursday proved to be a real surprise for Fred Bateman before the evening was over. He was the recipient of three gifts and many accolades from his grand lodge colleagues as well as local lodge officers.

The occasion was Mr. Bateman's 50th anniversary of joining LOL 442, and coincidentally to the exact date. While there are many members in the order with 50 or more years service, very few attain it in the same lodge where they join. Another feature of the event was that the man who initiated Mr. Bateman, Roy Barton, master of the lodge in 1922, was also present. This again is something not too often happens.

Heading the list of dignitaries was the grand master of Ontario East, James Breen of Kingston, along with immediate past grand master E. Jackson Wildman, grand secretary Leroy Heaney and his deputy James H. Book, and public relations officer Thomas Davidson of Ottawa. The guest of the evening is a past grand master and has served several years as Grand treasurer.

On behalf of the members of Spring Brook, Clayton Burkitt, grand auditor, presented a 50-year pin; Gavin Adams, county master, presented a copy of the new Anglican-United hymn book and Lorne Hagerman, also a past grand master, presented a per set on behalf of the district lodge, of which Mr. Bateman is district master this year.

After acknowledging the gifts, Mr. Bateman recalled some of his experiences in the time he has been a member, especially his entry into grand lodge office. All the other officers mentioned spoke briefly.

Presiding for the evening was Delbert Mumby, a past master of the lodge.

New postal code becomes effective

Stirling and eastern Ontario move into the first stage of the electronic mail delivery system this week with the issuing of the new postal code for all residents.

Based on a combination of six letters and numerals, the code for Stirling is KOK 3EO, which can be used on the bottom line of all addresses of mail coming into the village. Local residents should make sure it is used on their return addresses so people with whom they are communicating will get to know the code.

The purpose of the code is to assist mail sorting in the larger centres in particular. The code will be read by special electronic sorting machines and thus speed the delivery. In introducing the system, postal authorities have stressed it will not mean the loss of any jobs by present employees, but there will have to be some retraining as sorting will be done less by hand as the new system spreads and machinery is installed across the country.

The code has been designed to accommodate mail requirements for 30 years, but officials feel it will last longer than that. It is possible to sort mail to the specific block in a larger city, while rural post offices (ones where there is no carrier delivery) have their own code, and that is as specific as that number gets.

Over the next five years, the sorting machines will be installed in 15 cities that handle 85 per cent of the mail volume.

The Post Office department has offered to code any mailing list free of charge. Lists can be mailed to: Postal CODE; Eastern District, Ontario Postal Region, Ottawa, Ontario, K1A, OC1.

COUNCIL BRIEFS

Stirling is without a deputy clerk, following the resignation Monday night of Robert Hulin, who was appointed to the post in January. Mr. Hulin cited the likely imposition of regional government within a few years as his principal reason for leaving and resuming his printer's work with the Stirling News-Argus, which he formerly owned.

*****

Mrs. Jack Weatherell has been engaged by Stirling Council as clerical help for Clerk-Treasurer W.L. Pollock. Her primary duties will be handling the motor vehicle licence issuing, as well as performing secretarial work in the Village office.

*****

Ralph I. Johnston Construction, R.R. 2, Stirling was awarded the contract to build about 2,400 feet of sidewalks in Stirling before August 31. His price was 52 cents per square foot. The only other bid was by W.R. Spencer, at a price of 68¢ per square foot.

*****

Monday night was the final council meeting until September 5. Council usually holds only one meeting in July and the August meeting will be cancelled also.

*****

Council received notice from County Clerk Administrator Carl E. Bateman that an appeal against the education assessment by the city of Belleville for 1972 had been denied by a county appeal board.

*****

The cost of obtaining a land split in Stirling will be $50 as a result of action taken Monday night. The previous cost was $25, and even at $50, it will cost council money, but this is the maximum fee allowed.

*****

There will be no change in the wards for county school board elections this fall. As in the last two elections, Belleville will elect 5, Trenton 2, the balance of the county 7, plus one Separate School Trustee from Belleville and Trenton.

*****

Council will try and arrange a meeting with the township councils of Sidney, Rawdon and Huntingdon next week to discuss more details of the survey for senior citizens' housing. Reeve Robert Anderson suggested that perhaps arrangements could be made to have the eligible residents concerned tour the existing units to see what facilities are offered.

EYEING THE BOWL

Mrs. Jack Doran, Church St. watches as her bowl heads down the green at the local Lawn Bowling Green, Gore Street. Members of the club held a match on Thursday evening with club members from Campbellford.

Couple planning stint in Nigeria

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Konan will be leaving on Tuesday, July 18 for West Africa where they will be spending the year teaching at the University of Nigeria. Mrs. Konan is the former Mildred Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Morton, R.R. 5, Stirling.

Mr. Konan will be associated with the Law School at the University while Mrs. Konan will be teaching in the Sociology Department.

Mr. Konan is a graduate of Cornell University at Ithaca, New York and Mrs. Konan also received her PhD there. Mrs. Konan received her Public School education at the Wellman's Corners School and attended Stirling-Rawdon District High School.

Both have been teaching at Augustana College at Rock Island, Illinois for the past two years. Mr. Konan has also been associated with the John Deere Law Firm.

On their return home next year, they expect to make a tour through countries of the Far East where Mrs. Konan hopes to visit penpals in Burma and Japan with whom she has corresponded for the past ten years.

Bata plant on TV

A television special has been produced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation on the Shoe Industry in Canada with special emphasis on Bata Footwear and the village of Batawa.

Batawa residents, plant employees, supervisory and executive personnel were interviewed and specific operations were filmed during the C.B.C.'s two day operation.

Girls invade boys' world

Little girls can learn to do anything little boys can do and seven students from Trent University in Peterborough intend to prove it.

Under an $8,060 grant from the federal government's Opportunities for Youth Program, Centre City Girls' Camp is teaching self-sufficiency to 8-to-12-year-old girls in Peterborough's downtown section.

Before the end of the summer the girls will know how to do minor repairs on lamps, toasters and kettles, how to splice plugs, change washers on a leaking tap and unplug stopped-up drains.

They are also learning how to use hammers, wrenches, clamps and safety equipment. Older girls also learn the use of electric drills and lathes as part of an instruction program in carpentry, plumbing and electrical work.

Highlight of the first month long camping session are go-cart races and a fishing derby with the girls making their own hot rods, fishing poles and flies.

The camp is not a complete invasion of male stronghold, however. The kids also participate in more conventional day camp activities including arts, crafts and sports.

Project workers -- five girls and two boys -- will alternate instruction in shop and home economics.

"Men learn how to fix taps and unplug drains, so why can't women?", says Alix Young, one of the organizers. "We want to show that women can learn to plumb just as well as men."

The kids were really enthusiastic, she says. "For most of them this is the first opportunity they've had to find out what goes on in the shop classes."

Although the concept behind the Centre City program originated with a group of women's liberationists, project workers refute any suggestion they are looking for potential converts.

"We're not going to pound women's lib into their heads," says Alix. "We just want to show them how easy it is to do things for themselves."

INTER-PROVINCIAL EXCHANGE

Public planning meetings scheduled

The Ontario government is holding a series of public meetings on the future development of the Lake Ontario Region.

Five public meetings are scheduled: Port Hope (June 27 at Port Hope High School); Picton (July 6 at St. Mary Magdelene Anglican Church); Haliburton (July 20 at Thomas A. Stewart Secondary School); and Belleville (July 25 at Belleville Collegiate Institute).

All meetings will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The public meetings, involving senior civil servants, are designed to discuss local questions and gather comments on how the Region should be developed in terms of transportation, agriculture, industry, recreation, commerce, jobs, housing, etc.

The meetings are a follow-up to the June 1 release of the Ontario government's analysis report "Prospects for the Lake Ontario Region" which spelled out the alternatives for social and economic growth in the eight counties of Durham, Haliburton, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Northumberland, Peterborough, Prince Edward, and Victoria.

River Valley WI meeting

(By Mrs. Percy MacMullen)

On Thursday afternoon, July 6, River Valley Women's Institute convened at the Centre with Mrs. Gerald Brooks as hostess.

The two 4-H Homemaking clubs displayed their two projects of each group on long tables with colorful posters. The September 1971 project was 'Bedroom Accessories' and the May project 'Sportswear from Knits.' The club girls also had on display their record books. There were drapes, cushions, wastepaper cartons and a large variety of articles which they had made in the first project, and a display of clothing for all seasons of the year for the second project.

Fifty-one people were in attendance, composed of 22 members, five visitors, 14 4-H club girls and nine children.

Mrs. George Grills opened the meeting with the Institute Ode and the Mary Stewart Collect with Mrs. Philip Conley as pianist.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks read the minutes and correspondence.

The new fall 4-H Club project is entitled, "The Club Girl Entertaines." The training school for leaders is August 30 and 31 at Foxboro.

Mrs. J.L. Donohoe gave the financial statement and a report of the catering for the O.S.D. salad plate luncheon. Mrs. Vernon Harry gave the financial report for the Centre.

The Roll call gave likes and dislikes about the new fabrics - crimplene needs no ironing; polyester doesn't wrinkle; some of the materials fray; but all are nice to sew.

The August meeting will be held at the Centre on August 3rd. Mrs. Roy Tucker will be hostess. The topic will be on "an Industry in Hastings County."

The membership cards were distributed. Plans for the picnic on July 9 were completed with a telephone group officiated.

The two certificates won by Mrs. Gerald Brooks for 4-H club leadership were displayed.

A committee was appointed for the Donohoe wedding reception in August.

Mrs. Glenn Bush reported for the swimming project at the Kinsmen Pool, Belleville. Forty-one children are going by chartered bus each day.

The convenors gave items of interest re their departments.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Public Relations Officer, said the Federated Women's Institutes of Canada have 9 branches in the North West Territories and 4 in the Yukon. In the last issue of the Northern Lights Bulletin, tribute was paid to the late Mrs. James Haggerty of Napanee who died in April of this year after a lengthy illness. She had served as a former president of F.W.I.C.

Mrs. MacMullen recently sent a donation to A.C.W.W. in England for their Elsie Zimmern Memorial Fund. She was one of a group of three women who formed the A.C.W.W. Organization. Lady Aberdeen has been honored with a Scholarship Fund and now to date $10,000 has been donated to establish The Elsie Zimmern Memorial for training students in organization and leadership. The deceased served nearly 40 years in this department of work.

Mrs. Alfred Walt was made an Honorary President.

Mrs. Roy Tucker, A.C.W.W. Convenor reported that the June penny jar held two dollars. She gave a brief synopsis of a highly commended essay, "My Countryside - Today and Tomorrow," written by a member in Finland and published in The Countrywoman Magazine.

Kenneth Hoard passed the penny jar and Heather Hoard gathered the collection. Mrs. Roy Bush displayed the River Valley Tweedsmuir History Book.

Mrs. Gerald Brooks, leader of the River Valley 4-H Clubs, and Mrs. Robert Hoard, leader of Mount Pleasant 4-H Clubs each gave a short message. Beverly Bush and Marilyn Williams of the River Valley Club gave a commentary re selecting colors for the bedroom. They displayed color charts and various articles which had been fashioned in their project. Margaret Hoard, Linda Hoard, Joanne Hearns and Marlene Foshay displayed a variety of bedroom accessories such as cushions, covered waste paper baskets, lamp shades, etc. Bryce White gave the commentary, "Sportswear for All Seasons" for the River Valley Exhibit. Mrs. Sharon Sager played the piano for the River Valley Fashion parade with Wendy Hearns as commentator and five girls taking part.

Linda Hoard gave the commentary for Mount Pleasant on the theme, "Know Your Knits." Miss Brenda Williams provided piano music for the Mount Pleasant fashion parade with five girls also taking part and Marlene Foshay as commentator.

The girls and their leaders were highly commended for their work in the four projects.

DEMONSTRATION

Mrs. Robert Hoard introduced Eugene Burrell, local jeweller. He had a large display of china, glasaware and silverware and gave a discriptive account of the various items. He showed Royal Albert English Bone China, The Centennial Rose, Memory Lane and The Georgian shaped cups. There were also samples of Wedgewood Blue China. The glassware was in Cornflower crystal, Pinwheel and Cross and Olive with water, juice and dessert items. The silver displayed was 1847 Rodgers with both Silverplate and Solid Silver. The stainless steel sets of eight come in assorted prices and patterns.

Eugene told of "The Origin of China" which began thousands of years ago in the Middle East, then to Germany and on to England. Natural clay has been found in England. He showed an ash tray which he had made and explained the process.

At the close of his informative message Susan Bush voiced thanks and made the presentation of a small gift of remembrance. Eugene had a special free draw for the 4-H girls and the winners were Joanne Hearns and Sharon Lanigan. The tickets were drawn by Mrs. J.L. Donohoe and she was the recipiant of a china rose.

The refreshment committee - Mrs. Harry Morrow, Mrs. Alex Bush, Mrs. Paul Sorensen and Mrs. Allen McDonell provided cake and ice cream for the social hour.

Mrs. Glenn Bush voiced appreciative thanks to everyone who had made the afternoon a success.

Postal code

Eastern Ontario now has Canada's version of the American postal ZIP code.

We are told that under this new system, mail will reach its destination quicker and more efficiently.

Everyone will agree that some action was needed to improve mail delivery which, in this country, has deteriorated to a frightful state over the past few years.

Whether the new computer-oriented system will be any better is questionable, as our experience with computers is that they tend to go wrong as often as humans.

At any rate, we hope the postal service did a better job of setting up this coding system than our American counterparts did with their ZIP coding. In the latter instance, we understand evidence was uncovered which proved that "un-ZIPPED" mail arrived at its destination faster than the ZIPPED mail.

Weekly newspapers have felt the brunt of the poor postal service, with papers mailed on Wednesday requiring six and seven days to travel 100 miles. Dog teams would make far better time.

And so, we hope the new system really DOES put some zip into the mail service. Canadians certainly do deserve a better break.

Jones-Pollock wedding at St. Paul's

St. Paul's United Church, Stirling, was the setting for the June 24th wedding of Mary Ann Pollock and Douglas Peter Jones. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Pollock, R.R. 2, Stirling, and grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.L. Pollock, Stirling, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Jones, R.R. 1, Carrying Place.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. John May, and Mrs. Harry Brown played the musical accompaniment for Carolyn and Beverly Lewis of Foxboro.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white crepe, satin and chiffon, with appliques of french lace on the bodice and cuffs, which she designed and sewed herself. The skirt of chiffon was softly gathered about the waist falling in an extended train at the back. The double bridal veil of white netting was trimmed with lace. Her bouquet consisted of a single purple orchid, surrounded by white miniature carnations.

The maid of honour was Miss Patsy Benson of Ivanhoe, a friend of the bride. She wore a full length deep purple satin crepe pantgown and carried a cascade bouquet of white mums. The bridesmaids were Mrs. Dennis Gould, Foxboro and Mrs. Gary Wickens, Preston, sisters of the bride, and their outfits matched the maid of honour's.

Gerald Jones was groomsman for his brother, with brother Dave and brother-in-law Dennis Gould as ushers.

The reception was held at the Ivanhoe Town Hall, where the bride's mother received the guests wearing a combination coat and dress of lilac lace, with matching hat and white accessories. She wore a corsage of white gardenias.

The bridegroom's mother wore a pink crimp A-line dress with sleeves of lace in matching color, and had a white gardenia corsage also.

For the honeymoon trip, the bride chose a pink double-knit two piece hot pant suit, with white accessories.

Following their trip they will reside at Village Drive, Belleville, Ont.

Prior to the wedding, showers for the bride-to-be were held by her aunts Mrs. Pat Merrill and Mrs. Allen Pigden in Stirling; Miss Pat Benson gave a shower in Ivanhoe; and Mrs. Byron Locklin of Frankford also entertained with a shower at her home.

Keeping it clean

with Bill Dodds

Environment Minister James Auld, speaking at the 19th annual Industrial Waste Conference in Toronto recently, dipped into a forthcoming Environment Ontario report and produced some remarkable figures on existing water pollution.

"I find the many problems and changes that we face in the Ministry alarming and somewhat frightening," he said. But he added that the track record of the Ontario Water Resources Commission since its formation in 1957 -- the commission is now part of his Ministry -- restored his confidence.

The costs of controlling water pollution are high. Industry has spent $214 million on abatement since the OWRC was formed, Mr. Auld said. That's about $14 million a year during the past 15 years. But that average doesn't give a true picture of the accelerating intensity of pollution control. The two-year total of approved costs for treatment facilities in 1970 and 1971 was $68 million and the estimated spending for 1972 is $50 million.

However, Mr. Auld told the conference that in terms of present-day costs of equipment, construction and other expenses, more than $300 million would have to be spent just to abate existing water pollution from industry.

Half of this would be needed in the lower Great Lakes basin, he said.

The prevailing state of the economy in Ontario and in fact across Canada is having a serious effect on slowing down the rate at which industrial pollution abatement is going on, the Environment Minister said.

The companies under pressure to install pollution controls sometimes come back with the reply that the economy could force them to close plants, creating unemployment with disastrous effects on one - industry towns. This is used as an argument for not implementing or only partly completing pollution control systems.

Mr. Auld said Ontario's Resources Policy Field Committee is now reviewing the matter of economic incentives for industry. "It would appear that, unless the economic climate changes, further progress in certain important industrial classifications such as the pulp and paper industry could be seriously impeded," he said.

He added that financial incentives from Federal or Provincial authorities might help maintain the impetus in pollution control.

Mr. Auld had some significant figures on the pulp and paper industry -- "Only three plants of a total of 32 which discharge wastes directly to watercourses meet Ministry effluent requirements."

There's more -- more problems and some areas where solutions may be found.

Hold Smith—Tucker Wedding In Stirling

St. Paul's United Church was the setting of a Saturday, June 17 wedding when Susan Dianne Tucker became the bride of Russell Joseph Smith.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Tucker and the groom is the son of Mrs. William Smith and the late William Smith, all of Stirling.

Rev. John A. May officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. H. Brown played appropriate wedding music and accompanied Mrs. Paul Storring, sister of the groom. The church was appropriately decorated for the occasion with baskets of chrysanthemums, lupin and peonies.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of crystal peau with empire styled waistline and a wedding ring collar trimmed with Guipere lace. The full sleeves ending with a tight cuff and the bodice of her dress were trimmed with Guipere lace. The chapel length train was attached at the waistline with lace trimmed bows. Her four tiered silk illusion veil was held in place with a floral headpiece of Guipere lace and she carried a cascade of talisman roses.

The maid of honor for her sister, Donna Tucker wore a floor length gown of yellow polyester knit lace with empire styled waistline and peasant sleeves. Bonnie Smith and Judy Tucker as bridesmaids were dressed alike in gowns of green polyester knit lace, the same as the maid of honor. All attendants carried baskets of yellow daisies and green tinted chrysanthemums.

The groom was attended by his brother Ralph Smith, Centreville, as best man, while the ushers were another brother, Jack Smith and Wayne Tucker, brother of the bride.

A reception was held at Island Park where the guests were received by the mother of the bride. She wore a floor length sleeveless gown of salmon pink crepe with empire waistline and sequin trim. She was assisted by the mother of the groom who wore a mauve floral chiffon covered dress with shite accessories. Also in the receiving line were grandparents of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Tucker and Mrs. William Wiley and Carl Smith, escort for the groom's mother.

For a wedding trip to Kitchener, Waterloo, the bride chose a white hot-pants outfit with red trim, red accessories and a corsage of red sweetheart roses. They took up residence in Centreville upon their return.

Out of town guests were present from Toronto, Oshawa, Kingston, Napanee, Peterborough, Guelph, Wooler and Stirling.

Groups give display

A program of interest was recently put on at the Stirling Junior School Auditorium when the baton-twirling and majorette groups of the Stirling School Association put on a display of their talents.

The first half of the program was under the direction of Miss Lee-Ann Stapley and consisted of several numbers by the 15 girls in the majorette group. They were all attired in turquoise satin costumes and put on a splendid display of what they have learned this past winter.

The Drama group very capably performed several skits under the direction of Miss Ann Glendinning, ranging from a take-off on a soap opera to a fine solo rendition of Johnny Appleseed.

George Patton thanked the girls for the time and effort they have donated so willingly to teaching these youngsters.

Mary Catherine May and Marty McConnell presented Lee-Ann with a gift and bouquet of flowers, Danny Benson thanked Ann on behalf of the Drama Club and presented her with a gift. The evening was very well attended, especially by a large group of senior citizens which was much appreciated.

Personal

Donald C. Wood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Wood, R.R. 4, Stirling left on June 28th to take position with the Forest Rangers of White River, Ontario.

FLIGHTS FROM PRAIRIE MARSHES

Ducks Unlimited band recoveries reveal some remarkable travels by waterfowl. For example a number of pintail drakes banded in midsummer in central Saskatchewan and Alberta, were recovered the following spring in Kamchatka, Russia. These birds, probably migrated south in fall to California, paired off with female pintails from Russia and returned with their mates in the spring to Kamchatka. Another drake pintail banded in Alberta was recovered at Matsushima Bay, Japan. — Blue-winged Teal also travel far, regularly migrating to South America, one flew from Athabasca Delta, Alberta to Maricaibo, Venezuela, 3,750 miles in 34 days!

County inspector plan is discussed

Despite the fact that a number of municipalities are interested in the idea, Hastings county council last week took no action on the appointment of a county building inspector.

Since the last meeting of council, all county municipalities were polled about the idea. Five municipalities did not reply, 12 indicated they either approved or were interested, while 10 indicated they either were not in favor or were satisfied with the present method of inspection being carried out at the local level.

The idea of a county building inspector arose out of the announced intention of the provincial government to take over the safety inspection function.

This would have left county safety inspector Earl Mackey without a full-time job and it was suggested that consideration be given to the appointment of a county building inspector.

Later, Hastings MLA Clarke T. Rollins said legislation setting up the provincial safety program still required some committee work and had not yet been passed in the legislature.

As a result, a decision on the matter was deferred until a later meeting.

N.B. premier calls Madoc

The Lester B. Pearson Peace Park of Hastings County is achieving national significance as indicated by a telephone call from the Provincial Secretary of New Brunswick to the Rev. (Capt) J.R. Thompson, Co-Chairman, Madoc, regarding the flags and Coat-of-Arms of the provinces for the Avenue of the Provinces from the entrance gate to the Memorial Gardens.

The former premier of New Brunswick, Mr. Robichaud, had promised to supply the park with the flag and Coat-of-Arms of the province, but in the changeover the correspondence was mislaid. A follow-up letter from the park to the Honourable Richard Hatfield, premier, was the explanation for the telephone call.

The New Brunswick Coat-of-Arms and the flag have now been received and the flag is now flying along with the other provincial flags along the Avenue of the Provinces. Mr. Thompson received a promise from his caller to visit the park sometime in September.

Ladies take all the prizes

The boys at Senior Citizens are slipping. The girls have taken all the prizes for the last two weeks in succession. This week it was Madge David, Florence Hough, Lenora Williams and Pearl McGee. Two of these were playing as men. Among the 12 tables were two guests, Ella Brown and Ella Donald. We were happy to have Mame Morton with us again after a long absence.

The lunch committee was Amy Schram, Margaret Ward, Edna Sharpe and Dorothy Ross.

Don't forget to pack a basket and be at the club room at 12:15 on Wed., July 19th where cars will be waiting to drive you to the Senior Citizens annual picnic at Zwicks Island where the opening ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m.

The secretary was handed a pay envelope which, by error, contained a blank cheque. The astonished gal stared at it and moaned, "Just what I thought would happen ....my deductions have caught up with my salary."

Rodgers Drive sewage pump keeps plugging

Residents of Rodgers Drive will receive a letter from council in the near future regarding a serious problem in reference to the sewage pumping in that subdivision.

So far this spring, the pump has been clogged three times and required removal, and dismantling in Belleville in order to effect repairs. Total cost of each repair is about $200.

The problem is caused by disposal diapers or similar material being flushed into the system and the pump, one of the smaller type, cannot handle this material.

The residents will be asked to refrain from flushing anything into the system that could clog the pump and thus avoid costly and time consuming repairs.

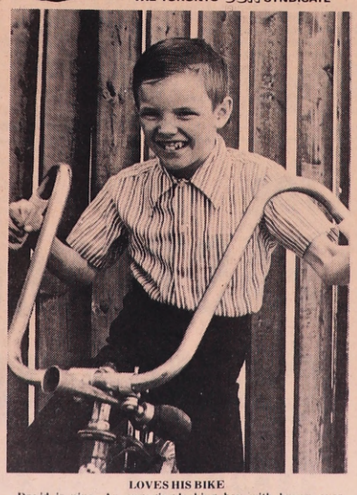
TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE



LOVES HIS BIKE

David is nine. An engaging-looking boy with brown eyes, brown hair and medium complexion. His background is Anglo-Saxon.

This youngster's health is good but he is small for his age, which is beginning to worry him. Circumstances in his life have contributed to a lack of self-confidence, and the recent discovery that he has a perceptual handicap seemed to be an added blow. However, a corrective program is being recommended which should help David in handling his school work and thus help his self-esteem.

David enjoys riding his bike and he loves working with his hands. In this area he feels competent and he tackles mechanical things with enthusiasm. He is fascinated by anything to do with aircraft — small engine model planes, real planes in the sky and on the ground. He has never seen a large airport and is looking forward to a promised visit to a really big one where he can watch the jets.

Basically, David is a friendly, trusting, affectionate child, curious and interested in things and with a good sense of humor. He needs a family who will love him for himself and value him for his many assets. Warm, mature, understanding parents will find him a rewarding son. David would probably be best as the youngest or the only child.

To inquire about adopting David, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, write your Children's Aid Society.

Old streetcars go back into service

Old streetcars - the kind that grandma and grandpa rode - are back in service on a specially built truck near Rockwood, a small Southern Ontario community.

The mile long line with its vintage rolling stock is part of a museum called the Halton County Radial Railway, set up by streetcar buffs anxious to preserve the past and, perhaps, point the way to the future.

A $12,789 federal grant under the 1972 Opportunities for Youth program helped the museum hire the staff and do the work necessary to put the railway in shape.

Tourists are already finding their way to the site - a heavily wooded tract 12 miles east of Guelph - for a nostalgic ride on some of the nine old streetcars.

The museum is operated by the Ontario Electric Railway Historical Association, a band of trolley car enthusiasts who set up their group after the city of Toronto decided to disband its collection of antique streetcars in 1953.

"The Opportunities for Youth grant has enabled us to bring the railway up to its full operating capacity and open our gates to the public for the first time," says Dennis Rankin, one of the streetcar buffs involved.

The third year Ryerson student describes electric cars as the "unsung heroes" of modern transportation. "They contributed a great deal to the development of Ontario during the early part of the 20th century."

"Before streetcars were introduced people depended on horsedrawn vehicles and had to live close to work. But with the advent of electric cars, city dwellers left the dark and crowded cities and the rush to the suburbs began."

The museum is located on the original right of way of the old Toronto-Guelph streetcar line. That system has long since disappeared, but the era of the streetcar is far from over, Dennis says.

"I expect you'll see a streetcar revival in Toronto before too long. The Toronto Transit Commission had originally promised that all streetcars would be taken off by 1980 but now they are looking for new ones."

He attributes this policy change to the fact that streetcars are pollution-free, quick, efficient, economical, safe and almost impossible to wear out.

The number of fatalities involved in streetcar accidents are just about negligible, he says. "And with more people becoming concerned with the environment, it's only logical that the streetcar will make a comeback."

"The public is beginning to realize that streetcars aren't nearly as outmoded as they were once snowed into believing."

Oldest model in the collection is Number 327, which dates back to 1892. With its open sides, striped awnings and fish-net safety guard at the front, (known as a pedestrian shoveller before the turn of the century), the old car brings back nostalgic memories of bustles and barber shop quartets.

"This is one of my favorite cars", says Dennis. "Streetcars similar to this one were a common sight on Toronto streets when my grandmother was young."

"She used to tell me how the kids would jump on for a free ride and jump off again when the conductor came around to collect tickets."

Daily activities will include exercises and workshops designed to help the company develop their talents as individuals and as a working theatrical entity.

Out of these workshops, the company will develop two programs, a children's play aimed at the 7 to 8 year old audience, and an adult performance.

It is planned to take the children's play to the local playgrounds and Zwick's Island in the period of August 3 to August 6 and then take it on tour to communities in the Hastings and Prince Edward County areas the following week.

The adult show will be presented in the Pinnacle Playhouse from August 23 thru 26.

Final details on the tour and Playhouse production will be released at a later date.

Treatment plant approved

A $97,000.00 waste treatment plant has been approved for Bowes Company Limited at Colborne, about 25 miles West of Belleville, the Ministry of the Environment announced today.

The plans call for construction of a spray irrigation system to handle wastes from the food processing operation. This liquid waste will be screened and treated with lime to eliminate odours prior to disposal. The spray headers for this irrigation system, will be located at ground level and automatically operated from a central control panel.

Lagoons will be employed to store the waste when the spray irrigation system cannot be used, during the winter months or in adverse weather conditions.

At present, the facilities, covering 33 acres, are under construction, with scheduled completion early this summer.

ARDA pasture farm on display

The Victoria County ARDA Pasture Farm - all 1950 acres - and the 600 steers and heifers grazing on it will be available to the public for critical inspection on July 27th when the local Pasture Committee will host visitors from many parts of Ontario on "Pasture Day."

Pasture Day Chairman, Stanley Thomas, #5, Woodville, and his committee have arranged an outstanding program of talks, tours and displays.

Speakers include W.P. Watson, formerly Ontario Livestock Commissioner and Manager of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair; Ronald Wolfe, Bruce County beef farmer and H.F. Crown, Director of Ontario A.R.D.A.

Bob Murray, Beef Cattle Specialist, Brighton, will report on tests on rate of gain which are being conducted at the farm and Don Gallagher, Soils and Crops Specialist in Lindsay will outline seeding and fertilizing experiments he is conducting at the farm.

Guided tours of the farm will be conducted at 11 a.m. and immediately after the speaking program.

Light lunch will be available on the grounds.

Certificates are awarded

Two area municipal employees - county clerk-administrator Carl E. Bateman and Tyendinaga clerk-treasurer William Walsh have received county council commendation for initiative shown in furthering their knowledge of municipal administration procedures.

The two clerks were commended recently by Hastings county warden Carman Gibson on their certification as clerks by the International Institute of Municipal Clerks.

Mr. Bateman and Mr. Walsh are among the first clerks in Canada and the United States to receive certification since the institute commenced its certification policy in 1970.

Both Mr. Bateman and Mr. Walsh expressed their appreciation for the warden's commendation, the former noting that with today's rapid changes in municipal procedures, it was the incumbent duty of all officials to keep up with the changes.

"Education is a continuing thing," he said.

MISTAKEN IDENTITY

You tell me I am getting old.
I tell you that's not so!
The 'house' I live in is worn out,
And that, of course, I know.
It's been in use a long, long while;
It's weathered many a gale;
I'm really not surprised you think
It's getting somewhat frail.

The color's changing on the roof,
The window's getting dim,
The wall's a bit transparent
And looking rather thin,
The foundation's not so steady
As once it used to be ..
My house is getting shaky,
But my 'house' isn't ME!

The dweller in my little 'house'
Is young and bright and gay;
Just starting on a life to last
Throughout eternal day.
You only see the outside,
Which is all that most folks see.
You tell me I am getting old?
You've mixed my house with ME!

Non-returnable jugs to be banned

Environment Minister James Auld announced that an amendment to the Environmental protection Act has received Royal Assent which would allow for a regulation to be passed that could be used to prevent the sale of milk in three-quart polyethylene non-returnable milk jugs

"I understand that test marketing of this type of container is currently taking place in Ontario, and I am concerned that it could contribute substantially in volume to our waste disposal load in Ontario," said Mr. Auld.

He also noted that there is concern among consumers that the non-returnable jug will increase the cost of milk.

"My Ministry is working now to develop regulations to control litter and waste problems, but these cannot be drafted until all the facts and possible solutions have been explored," said Mr. Auld.

"I trust that this will be taken as a public indication of our intention to move positively to more adequate control of waste and to policies which will attempt to control any proposals which would add to the increased accumulation of waste," added Mr. Auld.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

TO WORK OR NOT?

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I went back towork at age 45 and am now approaching 50. There's a lot of pressure in my job, which involves political activities. I also have developed a weight problem recently, which I seem unable to control. And I still have two working daughters at home. (They're wonderful girls and I sometimes worry if I'll regret the fact that I didn't make life a little less hectic for them.) I think maybe I should quit my job and get busy with some home projects instead. My husband, who's one in a million, tells me it must be my own decision.

V. R.

Dear V.R.:

Your husband apparently isn't complaining that you're not a homebody anymore. And if your daughters are grown upenough to work, they probably don't need you hovering around them. So if you enjoy what you're doing - pressure and all - you certainly should keep your job. Your weight problem, however, is something that needs your immediate attention. It just isn't a good idea for a woman your age to be overweight. Why not check things out with your doctor? Have him give you a complete physical checkup. Then ask him to recommend a diet that you'll be able to follow for a long, long time. This may mean that you'll have to retrain your eating habits. And that won't be easy. But the only diets that work are the ones you stay on.

DESCRIBING A SYMPTON

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

What are hot flushes anyway? I'm 48 years old and have never had one although I hear about them all the time. Is every woman supposed to experience hot flushes around this age?

E. R.

Dear E.R.:

Hot flushes are one of the symptoms of the menopause, but you may not be in the menopause yet. These flushes can vary from a simple redness or hotness of face or neck (not unlike the blushes of adolescence) to intense wave - like sensations of heat, starting in the upper part of the body and rising from the rib cage to envelop the chest, neck and head. They can occur as frequently as every half hour, to only once or twice a day. The more extreme ones are accompanied by profuse sweating, sometimes followed by a distressing chilliness. These hot flushes are often attributed to a decline of the estrogen levels during the menopause. Some women never get hot flushes at all. Some get them moderately; some severely. When they are severe, doctors will often prescribe a hormone treatment known as estrogen replacement therapy for them. This usually reduces these symptoms quite dramatically.

In - Law's interference

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm having so much trouble with my mother - in - law. I've been married for just a year and although she doesn't live with us, she's always on my bake. She comes to visit every day and tries to run everything. She's always telling me how to raise my own child, what dishes to cook, even what kind of curtains I should hang on my living room windows. She always acts like she's the boss around here. It makes mo so mad. But I try not to get into any arguments with her. When I complain about this to my husband, he clams up and says he doesn't want to get involved. What he means is: he doesn't want to get caught in the middle. I sometimes feel that if my mother - in - law's interference goes on much longer, it's going to break up our marriage.

C.W.

Dear C.W.:

No person can push another around unless that second person knuckles under and permits it. (It's only the submissiveness and guilt of the victim that makes the bullying possible in the first place.) So, when you mother-in-law begins to interfere, you must learn to stand up to her. You might tell her that you're always glad to hear her views, but that the final decisions in these matters must be yours. She may not like this approach, but that's her problem -- not yours. It may also make her a less frequent visitor to your house, which wold be a good idea. As for your husband, he can show his loyalty to you -- not by running interference -- but by encouraging you to stand up for your rights and by supporting you in that stand.

Switch Age Groups

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I've been a widow for two-and-a-half years and am 55 years of age. I was forced to return to the business world because of extreme loneliness. (It was not for financial reasons: I have a federal pension.) I only work five hours a day, five days a week, but I long to retire. I spend most of my day and night hours trying to figure out some way to exist alone. I have two successful sons who love me, but they're married and live in Michigan - so I'm ashamed to complain. I also have a lovely, comfortable home. Yet I'm more desolate now than I was two years ago. Last month, I found it necessary to invite two other widows to my home to address some envelopes for the missionary work we do at our church. The result was that they poured out all their troubles and this only accented my own particular problems. I was a bundle of nerves for a week after that. I just don't know where to turn.

R. J.

Dear R.J.:

Withdrawal from the world is not the answer because you'd only be lonelier than ever. (Getting into one's shell may be fine for turtles, but it's terrible for people.) How about switching age groups instead? Stay away from those other widows for a while. Why not, for example, check to see if the children's ward of your local hospital could use a volunteer -- perhaps on weekends, or during those hours when you're not at work. Those little children get awfully lonely away from home and if there's someone to read to them, play with them, or help feed them, it makes a big difference. After all, there are plenty of people in this world who need you, but you've got to go out and find them.

Vocational study found popular

Secondary school students are being prepared for technical jobs after graduation by making practical application of theoretical learning.

A seven-man technical education committee last week presented a report to Hastings County Board of Education outlining the present technical programs. It emphasized the students' acceptance of technical and vocational education.

Technical education is designed to provide students with skills they can put to use in the worl of work.

But at the same time, it interests and motivates students who lack interest and ability in traditional academic subjects.

Present programs offer technical students either a specialized course or a fully integrated program. The latter scheme permits students to spend equal amounts of time covering topics which apply to a variety of technical disciplines.

The future of technical education in the county is going to be determined by the part technical education plays in the secondary school program, says the report. Some 60 per cent of boys registered in high schools have a mechanical aptitude or interest.

The report included the results of a questionnaire carried out in secondary schools in the couty. The questionnaire was given to any student with one or more credits in a technical department.

Everett Fairman, trustee on the board and a committee member, said that the technical courses will provide a general education with stresses in science and technology. Major proportions of learning should come from the technical department but a solid core should come from the school's academic department he said.

Board chairman Donald Williams said technical programs should provide the student with skills and knowledge for background in a specific job. He hoped that "good general knowledge is useful" in the work world.

Newlyweds are honored

Friends from the Mount Pleasant Community gathered at the church hall on Saturday evening, July 8, and tendered Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Stevens (nee Sharon Graff) of Port Credit a shower party on the occasion of their recent marriage. Rev. W.C. Cox was master of ceremonies.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen recited a number.

Miss Margaret Hoard contributed a piano solo.

Llyn and Greg Joslin sang with Mrs. Garth Joslin as accompianist.

Ronald and Sharon were given seats of honor and Mrs. Robert Hoard read an address of appreciation. Mrs. Stanley Williams made the presentation of a purse of money on behalf of the community and a church plate from the United Church Women.

AT THE ROTARY STREET FAIR

Scott Stevens, 4, from Stirling and his cousin, Kelly Flect, 7, from Welland enjoy a train ride during the annual Rotary Street Fair. This ride along with swings and ferris wheel attracted the attention of many youngsters who visited the fair. Several booths provided entertainment for the older children and adults.

STREET FAIR A SUCCESS

Stirling Rotarians presented another successful Street Fair on Monday night with games of all kinds and a new feature to the fair, kiddies rides.

David Gliddon, vice-president of the local club said that the attendance was as good as last year but more steady with full tables of bingo continuing to the end of the evening. Mr. Gliddon thought that the three rides that had been introduced to the fair for the first time kept parents with children at the fair longer than they would normally have stayed.

The three rides, swings, a small ferris wheel and a train were supplied by Fred Ellis of Trenton. The rides sold 628 tickets. This was not a profit for the Rotary Club but it came closer to a profit-making figure than what the Rotarians had expected, stated Mr. Gliddon.

Booths were set up by the Rotarians on Mill Street in the village with a number of games available for both children and adults. For the youngsters, a fish pond was available with many little anglers proving their skill at the sport. Other games set up included dart balloon throw, milk bottle ball toss, cowbell ball toss, ring toss, and crown and anchor. Also present was the usual bingo game with many children and adults trying their luck. The bingo tables were kept busy most of the evening with many people waiting in line for a space at the tables.

Refreshment stands were available with Rotarians looking after them.

At the close of the fair, three ticket draws were made. First prize ticket holder of a new 10 speed bicycle was Elwood Johnson, Emma St. in the village. He held ticket No. 3702. Second prize winner was Marie Wilson of the village. She won $25. Her ticket number was 2055. Winner of $15 was Ken Nunn of Stirling. He held ticket No. 3004.

Sneezing is problem

The lunch last Thursday at Senior Citizens was prepared by Florence Dafoe, Florence Hough, Helen Williams and Iva Ayrhart and the serving was directed by Lloyd Dafoe who acted as head waiter. I think the public must get fed up with me telling you who won at euchre so I will just say we had a lot of fun.

There were a lot of sneezes in the group, George Heasman had a cold and the rest just sneezed. This reminds me of the following:

I sneezed a sneeze into the air
It fell to earth, I know not where;
But hard and cold were the looks of those
In whose vicinity I snoze.

A SUGGESTION

"I see that at your Church Convention," said an old farmer to the preacher, "you discussed the subject: "How to get people to attend church." I have never heard a single address at a farmer's convention on how to get the cattle to come to eat. We spend our time discussing the best kind of feed."

LET'S HAVE THE NEWS

Vacation season is here, and it brings a steady stream of visitors to the community, while scores of local residents are holidaying at other points from time to time. Every one of these visitors is a news item of interest to at least some of our readers and we are very anxious to receive these items.

Supervisory crews keep power flowing

Storms which swept much of Ontario last week severely tested management crews maintaining the Provinc's strike-bound power system, said H.J. Cox, Manager of Ontario Hydro's Frankford area.

"Entire communities were left without power when lines were struck by lightning or severed by fallen trees. The Union turned out in some cases, but in many instances refused assistance when requested," Mr. Cox added.

In Eastern Ontario, Perth, Winchester and Tweed areas came off worst. At Winchester, supervisory crews worked 30 hours without a break.

Locally supervisory crews worked up to 24 hours at a time, over the weekend, restoring power after the severe thunder storm associated with high winds. All staff have been on strike in the Frankford area since June 30th with the exception of one day. No sign of return to work is evident.

C.U.P.E. is asking for an 11 per cent across the board wage increase in one year. Hydro has replied with a 12 per cent offer over two years for some job categories, and a lesser increase for other jobs to bring them more into line with rates prevailing in outside industry. As yet, CUPE has yet to respond to Hydro's offer, which also includes a substantial benefits package.

"The Union has defined the wage differential, job security and a proposal on shift work as contentious items. But these are issues which should be resolved at the bargaining table," said Mr. Cox.

Surprise party held

On Tuesday evening, July 11, Mr. and Mrs. Sid Williams, Church Street, were pleasantly surprised when a few friends paid them a visit at their new home in the Senior Housing Unit in Stirling.

Ralph Jeffs was master of ceremonies, and selections were given by Mrs. Robert Hoard and Mrs. Percy MacMullen.

Ross Jeffs read an appreciative message and the names of the donors were written on a card and presented with a purse of money, on behalf of their neighgors and friends in the country where they have resided for the past twenty-two years.

Sid and Helen voiced appreciative thanks for the party and gift. The group then served refreshments which they had provided.

Mrs. Carman Reid, Kingston, was holidaying with her parents for the week and also was present for the party.

The neighbors who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Jeffs, Mr. and Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Jeffs and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoard.

Festival of Praise holds annual meeting

Recently the executive and the annual meetings of the Stirling Music Festival of Sacred Praise were held at the home of Mrs. T. Spear with 20 present. Mrs. B. Glendinning called the meeting to order and opened the meeting, followed by prayer by Rev. John May, Stirling.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. Mrs. A. Reilly gave the treasurer's report showing a balance of $1542.35. Mrs. Reilly moved the adoption of this report, seconded by Mrs. Spear. Mrs. Reilly thanked Mrs. C. Potter for assisting her in the past year.

An interesting letter of appreciation from Robin Ormsby, the winner of the Stirling Festival of Sacred Praise award, was read. A letter of apology was read from Miss Lee of Wilson and Lee Ltd. Music Store, in regards to some orders for music that were not acknowledged.

Suggestions arising from the 1972 Festival were:

- that they combine classes where there is only one entry in a class, such as in Senior Vocal.
- Mrs. Grant suggested that the list of awards be printed in the syllabus.
- that "Own Choice" must be chosen and named on the entry form, and for vocal classes, piano accompaniment must be used, and not a simplified version of the piece.
- that a Folk Song class might be added to the Syllabus.
- that some of the Scripture adjudicators be asked to come back to adjudicate at future Festivals.
- that an Elocutionist adjudicate the Scripture classes.
- each contestant should play the piece they are asked to do at the Stars' Concert, as this is the adjudicator's choice, as well as to aid in the planning of the Program.
- that the Stars' Concert start at 7:30 p.m.

Mrs. D. Williams moved the adjournment of the executive meeting.

The minutes of the annual meeting were read and adopted.

Mrs. Spear gave her report for the Music Committee. G. Carlisle gave a report for the Finance Committee, and Mrs. Morton for the Scripture Committee. Mrs. S. McArton gave the Secretary's report.

Mrs. H. Keefer spoke as Chairman of the Advisory Board of ways that this committee should be used. It was decided that this Board should attend to a few matters of importance such as awards for various classes, and bring their decision to the Executive meeting in the Fall. They should write a letter to Jane Bastedo explaining that all class winners do not receive awards.

Mrs. Potter, chairman of the Nominating Committee, brought in the new slate of officers; following this Mrs. Glendinning asked for further nominations.

Mrs. McArton nominated Mrs. May for Recording Secretary.

Mrs. Reilly nominated Mrs. Taylor for Music Chairman.

Hydro route is opposed

Ontario Hydro's proposed 500-kv transmission line may have received short circuit - this time in Sidney Township.

Sidney residents last week requested that Hydro move its 610 foot corridor about 1000 feet north of the proposed route to follow a road allowance along the top of the fourth concession.

They would also like to see the Trent River crossing made near Highway 401 south of the built-up areas of Batawa and Frankford. Such a diversion could cost Hydro an additional $1 million.

More than 30 lot owners met with Hydro officials at Sidney town hall to make recommendations prior to the release of a revised route Aug. 1.

Most live along the fourth concession and would have their farms divided in two should the corridor go ahead as planned. By moving it further north, farmers would still lose land but would be left with their reduced lot intact.

Reeve Jack Bush said the two suggested Trent crossings were unacceptable.

"The upper one through Frankford takes out a subdivision and the middle one passes through the northern end of Batawa," he said.

Traversing the river to the south, while necessitating the crossing of several additional farms, would inconvenience fewer houses, said Mr. Bush.

Jug ban to stick

Cabinet has approved regulations forbidding non-returnable polyethylene three-quart milk containers and agreed to regulate similar containers of plastic-coated paper, Environment Minister James Auld announced today.

The ban on the polyethylene disposable jugs takes effect in the next couple of weeks, as soon as the regulation is printed in the Ontario Gazette, Mr. Auld said.

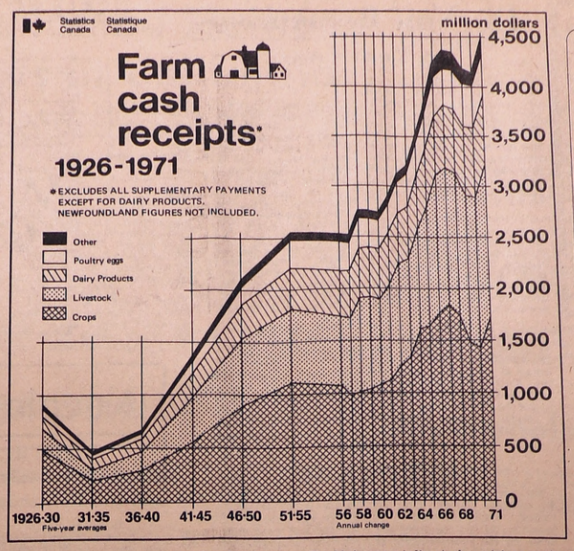
While the Cabinet has approved in principle of regulating the other type of one-way three-quart container, Mr. Auld said, that regulation will not go through until after his Ministry meets with dairy representatives to establish its timing.

"We don't intend to pass the other regulation immediately, because there are a number of companies using the plastic-coated paper containers. In all fairness, we must allow these companies enough time to decide on an alternative container and to gear their operation to it," he said.

"The one-way plastic jugs have just been test-marketed by one company," Mr. Auld said, "so we can take immediate action there."

He said Ontario's action on these containers is the first step in attacking the added load that disposable packaging places on waste disposal.

"We are taking a positive approach to the problem that is in tune with the growing concern of a public that is increasingly conscious of pollution."



Statistics Canada reports that Canadian farm cash receipts, which had been declining slightly each year since 1967, turned upward again last year and reached a new record high of $4,495 million. Chart above traces farm cash receipts over a 45-year period and shows how the revenue was divided.

Cash receipts were almost ten times as high in 1971 as they were during the depression years of 1931-35, lowest point on the chart. Receipts for crops increased eight times in the same period, dairy products seven and a half times, poultry and eggs ten times and livestock 14.7 times.

The big increase in livestock receipts accounted for the major change in product "mix." Livestock brought in only 21.9 per cent of cash receipts in those depression years, as compared with 33.6 per cent in 1971. Crops accounted for 43.7 per cent of farm revenues in 1931-35 and only 38 per cent last year. Dairy products provided 20.5 per cent of cash receipts in the thirties and 15.6 per cent last year. Poultry and eggs held about the same proportion of the market -- 8.9 per cent in 1931-35 and 9.1 per cent in 1971. "Other" receipts represented 4.9 per cent of the total in the thirties and 3.7 per cent last year.

Stirling WI holds meeting

The Stirling Women's Institute held their July meeting at the Community Centre on Wednesday afternoon when 23 members and two visitors were present.

Mrs. Everett Cooke announced the meeting was open for business. Name a way in which progress is changing our lives was the meeting roll call for the afternoon.

Mrs. John Senior, secretary read the minutes, also a number of thank you letters that had been received. A letter from the Hastings home economist, Mrs. Elaine Struthers, was read which announced a new project, Club Girls Entertain, which intended for the 4-H Homemaking Girls Club. She also said Achievement Day will be held at Foxboro Church on Thursday, August 31.

Mrs. Alex Tanner, treasurer, gave her report on the sale of a quilt and the results from the open house tea. She said the society is in splendid condition financially and then presented the accounts to the members.

Mrs. L. Bronson reported that 82 boxes of clothing have been sent to the Scott Mission, Toronto for the spring sale.

Thank you messages are to be sent by the secretary to David Duffin and G. Hogle in recognition of their past kindnesses.

A bus trip is planned fo Aug. 8th. Mrs. Clarence Fitchett and Mrs. Ernest Broadworth will be in charge of all arrangements.

Reports from the standing committee convenors were read by Mrs. Tanner who spoke on Indian Schools. Mrs. Ashley Brooks explained some of the new ideas for curbing pollution which are being experimented with in Russia.

Linda Collins, Campbellford, a visitor to the meeting, collected Pennies for Friendship.

The singing of O Canada by the members was the opening theme for Canada Week. Mrs. Herbert David was the pianist. Mrs. Mabel Brooks gave a brief report on Canada. She spoke of how the country has progressed during the past 105 years and of the founding of industries in Canada.

Mrs. Alex Tanner continued her narrative with further information of Canada and of the great opportunities that are ever present for young people.

Mrs. Morley Ayrhart spoke about education.

"Teachers, as well as students must adapt themselves to the ever changing ways in education," she said. "More responsibility is being placed upon the shoulders of the students. They now have to use the knowledge they have and they are showing that experience is still the best teacher."

Mrs. Ayrhart then put on a contest.

Mrs. Nina Smith, Mrs. Raymond Chambers and Mrs. Clarence Fitchett served the luncheon.

A new way to really get your mail moving: Your local Postal Code.

By now, you've probably received your new Postal Code. And you may have seen or heard ads telling people in big cities how accurate and complicated their codes are.

Well, your local code is not as complicated. Obviously, since fewer people live in your area, we don't need as many codes. In fact, all we need is one code to represent all the people in your town and on your rural route.

So, if you forget your code, just ask one of your neighbours. Then don't forget, send it to your friends.

If they live in big cities, tell them how complicated their life is.

And if you haven't received your Code by July 31st, please call your local Post Office. We will mail it to you immediately. It is possible however, that you are not in the Eastern Ontario Postal District, in which case your area may not have been coded yet. For information in Ottawa call 996-6441.

A dim picture

Within the past week, viewers of especially American, but to a certain extent Canadian, television channels, have been able to witness (a) the election of a presidential candidate and all the political infighting that accompanies such an event; (b) same day (thanks to the international date line and communication satellites) coverage of the horrors of war in south-east Asia; and (c) the continuing strife in northern Ireland as religious feelings and their outgrowths govern the day-to-day lives of every citizen.

Within the same period, there was extensive coverage of several air piracy attempts and some successes. From the latter episodes, there was one sane suggestion from the men most involved, the pilots, who were quite likely speaking loudly for their crew members -- namely delete the detailed coverage of these capers, so others who may be waiting for some simple fact to trigger their unbalanced minds, will not be abetted by the new reports from all media.

The wonders of electronic communication have enabled those who live on this planet to witness many stupendous accomplishments in recent years. Most of this has been of a beneficial, educational and desirable nature. At the other end of the scale, the details of re-capturing a city block in Ireland or a hidden machine-gun post in Viet Nam, do nothing for us located hours or days away. It could be just as matter-of-factly mentioned, showing a picture of the city or its location, as far as television is concerned.

Those who follow some of the serious articles in the leading television magazine, know that attempts are being made, and have been made, to reduce or eliminate violence, especially when likely to be viewed by the younger watchers. It seems little different whether an armed man prowls the city streets mentioned or another, possibly not, tries to carry out some criminal act, albeit the audience knowing in varying degrees of comprehension that he will be caught. Action scenes on both types or program have really little variance for the uniformed or non-understanding watcher. Considering that fewer victims make the morgue than formerly, the fare of so called entertainment or drama, seems to be more easily explained to those who do not comprehend.

The air piracy fits right into this same picture. It is news that a plane has been hijacked, or an attempt made, the degree of success or any financial involvement. It seems rather inconsequential that the bare details be publicized as this is one thing that could make another successful -- learning by mistakes. The whole media has a responsibility in this field, and just one agreeing will be pointless. Each time a plane takes off, pilots have enough concern, both human and physical, under their command. Could not their task be eased a little by some formula whereby the airline concerned would issue a press release to cover the salient facts and stop there?

It is true this news coverage question could be opened to include a wide spectrum of issues, but if there was some improvement on the two matters raised, at least this would show there is a degree of co-operation possible that might prove useful campaigns in this area.

Three local Canadian National Railway section employees narrowly escaped death Friday morning when the gasoline "jigger" on which they were riding crashed head-on into a freight engine on a curve about two miles east of this village.

At the time of the accident, Fred Kent, section foreman, George Taylor and Leslie Chambers were coming west from Madoc Junction, and when rounding a curve met the east bound freight. All three jumped before the crash with Kent and Taylor sustaining lacerations, while Chambers escaped with minor injuries. The jigger was a total wreck.

Tour boat in operation

A Bowmanville tour boat operator and his wife recognized the tourist potential of the Trent Waterways system and adjacent Quinte waters and decided to implement a regular and charter scenic cruise service from Trenton commencing July 1.

Their new all steel hull cruise boat, The Miss Scugog, accommodates 40 passengers comfortably and 60 well within the safety regulations. It is 50 feet in length, 10 feet - 6 inches across the beam and a powerful diesel engine provides the motivation. It is operated under a government licence with an experienced captain at the controls.

The boat presently is berthed at the government dock south of the Trenton Legion Hall where all regular service trips will start from.

Cruise schedules set up so far include all daylight trips from Trenton to Campbellford on Thursdays and Saturdays and Trenton to Picton on Fridays and Sundays. There will be moonlight cruises from Trenton to Belleville on Fridays and Sundays commencing at sundown and continuing to midnight. Charters for groups at special rates are being encouraged.

The cruise service already available will become official Wednesday, July 12 with a day-long tour of Quinte waters with representatives of the area news media aboard.

DIPPING AGAIN

Last week, I mentioned that only three of the 32 pulp and paper plants discharging waste into watercourses in Ontario meet the effluent standards laid down by the Ministry of the Environment.

According to Environment Minister James Auld, this industry is a major contributor to waste loadings on our waters. In terms of total loadings from all industries, the pulp and paper companies discharge 88 percent of five-day biochemical oxygen demand (BOD 5) and 69 percent of suspended solids.

BOD 5 is the significant measurement of organic material that can decompose, using the oxygen fish need to survive.

Mr. Auld gave delegates at a recent Industrial Waste Conference figures that loosely related the total industrial BOD 5 contribution to municipal sanitary sewage. He said the industrial contribution equalled the five-day biochemical oxygen demand of sanitary sewage from 12 million people.

And Ontario's total population is 7 million, he concluded. The figures may not be rigidly correct, he said, but they are interesting.

Mr. Auld said the steel industry is responsible for 73 percent of metal losses to watercourses -- mostly iron and 79 percent of oily discharges.

A major concern, Mr. Auld said, is the accidental spill or discharge of pollution to rivers and streams. Petroleum hydrocarbons and other chemicals can cause serious damage to the acquatic environment.

In 1970, Ontario passed legislation requiring that all unusual discharges must be reported. In the following year, 285 were recorded, 19 of them serious. Only 49 were classed as true accidents Mr. Auld said. The rest involved negligence, faulty maintenance, poor training or equipment failure.

Mr. Auld said a spill response centre called the Ontario Operations Centre has been set up in his Ministry to deal with spill problems on a 24-hour basis. He said a contingency plan, to deal with major spills, has been developed to be compatible with the Canada - U.S. contingency plans in the Great Lakes basin and that it should be in final form later this year.

Mr. Auld indicated that his Ministry will deal itself in when new major industrial complexes are proposed. He said that the environmental impact of this sort of development should be a factor in Ontario's approval or rejection of this sort of development.

He summed up his review of the fight against pollution with a key sentence -- "This is one we can't afford to lose."

YELLOWTHROAT

Shy and elusive, this small yellow and green warbler is a resident of marsh edges darting about among reed beds or willow thickets. The male has a striking black face mask, the female has none; both are olive-green above and yellow below, brightest on upper breast. Song is a clear, ringing "witchery - witchery - witchery". Nests are situated on or close to the ground and are somewhat bulky structures, interlaced into supporting vegetation. Yellowthroats are found across southern Canada from coast to coast.

Promote famed Heritage Highways in California

The enormous California tourism market is the target of a concentrated co-operative program being promoted by the governments of Ontario and Quebec, in conjunction with Air Canada and the Canadian Government Travel Bureau.

The combined promotion, called Heritage Highways, was outlined jointly by the Hon. John White, minister of the Ontario Ministry of Industry and Tourism and the Hon. Claude Simard, minister responsible for the Quebec Department of Tourism, Fish and Game.

A highlight of the project is slated for the fall of 1972, when a Heritage Highways carrier package program will be offered, the promotion to consist of consumer advertising in the Los Angeles and San Diego markets, trade advertising and travel trade seminars.

In addition, Ontario will have a representative at San Diego and Los Angeles travel trade seminars during the second week of August.

Heritage Highways pertains to the romantic route which brought explorers, pioneers and settlers westward across the two great provinces of Quebec and Ontario to the continent's heartland in the earliest days of the nation's history.

Today it is a popular tourist route that begins at Niagara Falls and travels through Toronto to the nation's capital, Ottawa; then on to Montreal and Quebec City, terminating at the Perce Rock at the tip of the Gaspe Peninsula. Along the way travellers have the choice of many rewarding side trips.

The program's $50,000-cost is being shared equally by the four partners.

The package now features Sheraton Hotels in the two provinces and will be expanded in 1973 to include Holiday Inns. Also in 1973, the travel package will be promoted in the western U.S. -- where there are 4,000 travel agents -- in the territory bounded by New Orleans, Chicago, Minneapolis and San Francisco.

These programs follow a series conducted for three weeks in the spring of 1972, when Air Canada and the Canadian Government Travel Bureau promoted Heritage Highways on television in Chicago, San Francisco, Los Angeles and Mineapolis.

The high tourism potential of the California region is indicated by the fact that there are a thousand travel agents in that state and that even Southern California is a huge, mobile market of 14 million people.

A booklet entitled Heritage Highways -- Sur la Route des Pionniers, with text in English and French, has been jointly produced by Ontario and Quebec in a spirit of co-operative competition. The 60 page booklet, illustrated in color, discusses an inter-provincial tour in terms of the inherent attractiveness of the route, and is available by writing: Ministry of Industry and Tourism, 900 Bay St., Hearst Block, Queen's Park, Toronto 182, Ontario, Canada.

TODAY'S CHILD

BY HELEN ALLEN

THE TORONTO SUN SYNDICATE

HE LIKES SPORTS

When you are 10 and life has not been kind to you, you really need a family to make you feel wanted and loved.

Robert is a slim, healthy boy with blue eyes, fair skin and blonde hair which he likes to wear long. He wants to be adopted so he will have parents like other boys — a warm, loving mother to be proud of him and a father to take a real interest in him and do things with him.

Sociable and outgoing with delightful manners Robert wins friends readily. He is active and enthusiastic, sometimes to the point of being aggressive. He enjoys sports, with basketball, football and hockey the favorites.

Robert rides many miles a week on his bike. If he is given a choice of outings, he usually chooses a picnic. He is fond of music, especially the pop variety.

In grade four, he is an average student and, there is indication he will do better when his anxieties about the future are resolved and he feels settled in a home of his own.

This lad spent two years in a treatment centre for emotional problems, and he has made a good adjustment to family life in a specialized foster home. He is now ready and eager to move on to an adoption home.

Robert needs parents who can set firm limits but be able to do so in a warm, loving manner. They will need to realize that he has memories of people and events that are important to him. There should be no other children in the family close to Robert in age.

To inquire about adopting Robert, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, write your Children's Aid Society.

Building plywood boats

The new FIR PLYWOOD BOAT PLAN CATALOGUE published by the Council of the Forest Industries of British Columbia lists over 100 plans for plywood boats that can be built by the amateur builder. Boat plans listed in this 45 page catalogue include: Dinghies, Surfboards, Canoes and Kayaks, Power and Sailboats, Houseboats and Commercial Craft.

Each listing contains an illustration and description of the boat (including principal dimensions), plus the cost of the plan and where to buy it.

Any handyman with basic woodworking skills and an ability to follow instructions can turn out a sound tight boat thanks to plywood. But the first-time boat builder naturally has a few areas of apprehension. What type of plywood do I buy? How do I bend it? Do I glue the joint, or should I use seam compound?

Because plywood is so easy to use in boat building, and because home boat building is becoming increasingly popular, the Council of the Forest Industries of B.C. has a special publication to assist first time boat builders. "Building Plywood Boats" is an addition to CFI's popular Ply* Plan series. While others in the series have presented a specific plan with information and drawings, "Building Plywood Boats" is the first Ply*Plan giving general information and useful tips only.

INFRARED, FRIENDLY SPY

A military secret of two world wars is used by Ontario Hydro to spot weaknesses in its transmission systems.

Thermography — detection of objects by reading their heat with infrared sensors — wasn't released for non-military use until the 1950's. In wartime, infrared detectors located night-flying enemy planes and pinpointed troops on the ground. Civilian and industrial applications have grown to include medical diagnosis, searches for people lost at sea, early detection of forest fires, and industrial process supervision.

Hydro's technicians use the detector to locate faults in lines and switches carrying electric current. The infrared scanner creates an image, not from the visible part of the spectrum, but from heat radiation. A loose or corroded electrical connection becomes a hot spot which appears white on the scanner's television monitor, while warm areas are gray and cold areas black.

Preventive maintenance using infrared detection equipment allows faulty parts to be found and replaced before serious trouble develops.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD STEVENS

Stevens - Graff

Mount Pleasant United Church was the scene of the recent marriage between Sharon Elizabeth Graff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Graff, R.R. 3, Stirling and Ronald McKinley Stevens, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Stevens, Port Credit.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length hooded coat in antique white flocked dacron over an A-line skimmer of mauve polyester suede satin. Her bridal bouquet consisted of two dozen sweetheart roses entwined with ivy.

The maid of honor, Miss Barbara Burrows of Wooler was dressed in a floor-length dress of mauve and white flocked dacron with an underdress of mauve.

The junior gridesmaid, Miss Kim Graff was dressed in identical style in pink and white.

Both attendants wore wrist corsages of pink and white carnations.

Andre Meyer of Port Credit was best man.

For the reception at Mount Pleasant Hall and Island Park Marina, the bride's mother greeted the guests in a floor-length gown of carnation pink polyester crepe, white gardenias and accessories enhanced her dress.

The bridegroom's mother assisted wearing a daffodil yellow floor-length gown in polyester crepe. A corsage of gardenias completed her ensemble.

The couple on their return from a honeymoon trip to points north are residing in Port Credit.

Dollars and Good Sense

(By William J. Martin)

How are we coming on the "chequeless" society, that futuristic world where all charges would be made automatically and money would almost never be seen?

The advent of the bank credit card took us a giant step closer to this world, of course, but now a pilot study program in California is seeking to eliminate the final hurdles.

The study actually began in 1968 and after four years of work by the banks of Los Angeles and San Francisco, the program is ready to be tested.

The key is the clearing house to exchange prearranged paperless entries between different banks. How does it work?

First, an employer will make arrangements with his bank to process paperless entries and give his employees individual authorization agreements. Those employees who want to participate in the program will authorize their companies to automatically deposit their paycheck in any bank of their choice. He also authorizes his own bank to accept the payments.

The employer would then deliver a magnetic tape containing employee account number information and net salary payments to his bank. That bank would keep the entries for employees using it and forward a tape containing entries for other banks to the Automated Clearing House which will balance, sort and distribute the entries to the bnks involved.

The employee would continue to get a statement of earnings, but no cheque. The paperless entries thus greatly reduces clerical work and bank congestion on paydays. For the employee, there is no danger of a lost or stolen check and the trip to the bank is eliminated.

The program is known as the Special Committee on Paperless Entries (SCOPE), and its activities are being watched carefully by a number of other banks outside California. If it proves successful, the "chequeless" society, or more properly, the cashless society, will be on its way.

custom designed sewing room for creative home

Only the homemaker who already has everything knows how truly satisfying and creative it is to work in a well organized area. This sewing room has a place for everything and space for everything.

The built-in plywood furniture has two special drawers with dividers for different colors and shades of thread. Another shallow drawer is for zippers and another for seam bindings. Five extra deep drawers are provided for storage.

The fold down plywood cutting table is covered with plastic laminate to match the sewing counter. On the wall behind the table a burlap covered tack board holds pattern pieces.

A well lit, walk-in cupboard has plywood shelves of assorted sizes to hold a tailor's ham, a knitting machine and the other little used incidentals that give the professional touch to home dressmaking. Many homemakers forego these little extras for lack of storage space but the owner of this delightful sewing room can find what she wants in a minute, then put it out of sight and out of the way until it is next needed.

While this sewing room is a custom design, many of the ideas can be adapted and executed by the average handyman. Almost every home has some space that can be transformed or added onto. A detailed list of what you want to keep there and how you want to use it is the starting point, and plywood, finished with plastic laminate or a good quality paint, is the simplest and most adaptable material to build with.

Careful planning is most important. In this design the 4x6 ft. cutting table also functions as a room divider allowing the owner a desk and personal office space on the far side. The sewing room has carpet over plywood floors and the carpet is carried four inches up the wall for easy cleaning and vacuuming. Another great convenience is a sliding light fixture above the sewing counter. This fixture can take electric plug-ins anywhere along its length.

Any activity is more creative and more satisfying if it takes place in well organized space. Give some thought to what you need.

V. Richardson 81 years old

Volney Richardson, R.R. 2, Stirling, celebrated his 81st birthday last week with a potluck dinner prepared by his daughter Marion, (Mrs. Jack Prest.) The dinner was held at the farm home of Mr. and Mrs. Prest, near Bonarlaw.

Mr. Richardson's children present were Rev. Grant Richardson and family from Nova Scotia and Mr. and Mrs. Prest. Friends and former neighbours also attended the dinner to help celebrate Mr. Richardson's birthday.

Mr. Richardson received gifts from his family and neighbours at the close of the dinner.

Mr. Richardson has lived in the area for 81 years as he was born on the farm where he is now living. He later moved into the village but returned to his homestead.

Lack of patience or loss of temper should never lead to temporary disregard for the skill necessary for job safety, St. John Ambulance warns.

Doors said easy targets for burglars

Although it may seem unlikely, the easiest way for a burglar to enter your house is through a door, the Insurance Bureau of Canada warns.

The IBC, which represents most of Canada's fire, casualty and automobile insurance companies, says a burglar will invariably try all of the doors in your house before he attempts to get in through a window. Often, the thief will find the door unlocked and that's just like inviting him in.

Even if you lock your doors, they are an easy target if there are any glass panes close to the lock. The burglar then only has to break the glass to unlock the door. With sliding glass doors, you should put a bar in the floor track, the Bureau advises, so that, even if the thief breaks the lock, he can't slide the door back.

If you lose a set of keys to your house, you should immediately have your locks reset. This is especially important if, like many people, your key chain has your identification attached to it.

The only other way into your house, obviously, is through a window. You should make sure all of these are locked and the locking mechanism is in good working order. Breaking glass in a window to gain entry is noisy, but a loose lock can be pried open easily.

The Bureau also suggests that you lock away garden tools and ladders if you are going away for more than a day. If you don't, you may find your house broken into with your own tools.

When burglars enter a house, the main items they are looking for are those that are easy to carry and easy to sell. Therefore, you should keep a list of such items as radios, television sets, small appliances, camaras, tape recorders and hi-fi sets. The list, with serial numbers where possible, can help the police to trace criminals and will make it easy for you when putting in a claim to your insurance company.

When insurance men advise people to make a list of their possessions, often the policyholder replies that he knows what heowns and doesn't need one. If you believe this, then try this simple test: sit in the kitchen and try to write down all of your possessions in the living room. You'll miss a number of items. Think how difficult it would be to supply a list once the items were stolen.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

LOOKING FOR A FRIEND

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

You wrote some time ago about an older couple meeting and becoming good friends. I'm in my 70's, and would like to meet a man my age who's interested in all sorts of sports. Do you have any suggestions as to how I might meet such a man?

M.L.

Dear M.L.:

Unfortunately there aren't too many men in your age group, who are footloose and fancy free. But if there's one in your vicinity, I'm sure you'll find him. One way is to get around and meet as many people as you can. Join organizations where there's a chance of making such friends. (An interest in birdwatching brought the other couple you mentioned together.) You might try seeking out such a group yourself. If you don't find any interesting men right away, perhaps you might find a number of interesting birds.

CONSIDERABLE COURAGE

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 59, my husband is 64. Fifteen years ago, we bought a house and eventually got it all paid for. Then four years ago, my husband had trouble walking and took all kinds of tests, x-rays, shots and pills. After that, he had to have surgery on his spine, but still dragged his feet when he walked. Finally, he had to go on disability.

He has since then had other health problems, including a growth in his throat which requires him to have regular radium treatments. I myself worked until two years ago, when I was laid off. I've filled out many applications to get another job. (They said they'd let me know, but they haven't.) We're now living on my husband's disability cheque. And it's not easy to get along. I tried to get supplementary assistance, but was told we had to sell our house to qualify. Our taxes are $500 a year. If we sold our house and found an apartment, it would cost so much more than our taxes that I dropped that idea. With my husband ailing, I have to do all the work around the house -- cut the grass, paint and clean, wash windows, etc. Some of the work is kind of hard. I have arthritis now and my fingers often get so stiff I can't hold anything. (My son helps with painting the outside of the house and little odd jobs, but he has his own troubles and we can't depend on him. Sometimes my sister lends us money when we can't make ends meet.) But complaining won't help. When I read in the papers about what happens to other people, I know we aren't the only ones with trouble.

Dear S.D.:

Your situation requires considerable courage to carry on, but you sound as though you're made of sturdy stuff. Instead of trying for a regular job, have you considered supplementing your income with babysitting or similar part-time work? Perhaps your state has a disability and rehabilitation program your husband might be eligible for. You might check into this. Or he might tend a vegetable garden which could help his morale and provide more nourishment for you both.

SEX DRIVE

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 50 years old and recently had my uterus and ovaries removed. (I hadn't even started the menopause then.) Could you tell me whether having this operation means a woman's sex drive will diminish?

E.V.

Dear E.V.:

Doctors tell us that when a total hysterectomy -- or the removal of the uterus and ovaries -- is performed, this needn't affect a woman's sex drive. If that drive was originally strong, it can continue to be strong. However, to function as she did before, the woman must regain her sense of well-being. Since the removal of the ovaries (which produce estrogen) means removing the source of this female hormone, physicians often recommend estrogen replacement therapy after such surgery. If a woman doesn't regain her equilibrium for some time after the operation, her doctor may prescribe it to help her pick up her life where she left it.

*****

SERIOUS SITUATION

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 47 and divorced, with a son, age 20 and a daughter, 17. For the last three years I've been seeing a man I've known since high school. He was also married and divorced and now has three daughters, ages 21, 16 and 13. The two younger girls live in another city with his wife (who hasn't remarried.) He visits them often, and stays at their house, which he still owns jointly with his ex-wife. He claims he sees his former wife only because of the children and that he loves me and not her. The first year we went together, he said he wanted to get married. I didn't feel I should marry then because I knew he wasn't interested in my children and they were still so young. Now he says he wants things to remain as they are and that he doesn't want to marry me or anyone else. The fact that he spends quite a lot of time with his ex-wife and children--plus my uncertainty about how he actually feels--has made my life pretty mixed up. I love him very much, but know I should leave him and find my life elsewhere. I can't seem to make the break however. He's the only thing that matters to me. I've neglected my 17-year-old daughter for him. I have trouble keeping on an even keel. I worry about having a nervous breakdown and can't afford to have one. I have a very good job and no other means of support. I do so desperately need help.

C.I.

Dear C.I.:

Some problems in this world require only a few words of advice. Others need more extensive personal counseling. If there's a family service agency in your community, you might find it helpful to contact them and explore why you feel so committed to a man who doesn't seem willing to reciprocate with a commitment of his own. (Your Community Chest or United Fund might help you locate such an agency.) You're obviously aware of what your preoccupation and insecurity are doing to your 17 year old daughter. Perhaps if you gave her needs some priority for a change, this would not only help her, but perhaps help you as well.

Post secondary grants to increase

The value of the basic income unit, used in calculating support levels for colleges and universities, has been set at $1,825 for the 1973-74 academic year, the Hon. George A. Kerr, Minister of Colleges and Universities, announced today. This represents a 3.4% increase in the unit value, up $60 from this year's $1,765.

Bearing in mind that there are unavoidable increases in administrative costs and salaries, the Government believes this level of support will enable the colleges and the universities to maintain present standards of excellence and at the same time provide incentives for efficiency, Mr. Kerr indicated.

It is expected that, across the province, formula operating grants to universities will increase by about 9% or $33 million over the current level, taking into account projected student enrolment for 1973-74 and the weighing factors applied to different programs under formula financing. Because of larger increases in anticipated enrolment at the colleges of applied arts and technology, the formula grants to the colleges are expected to rise about 18% or $19 million across the system during 1973-74.

In a letter to the presidents of the universities and colleges announcing the increase, Mr. Kerr said that the unit value had been established at $1,825 after thorough consideration by the Government and was intended to permit the institutions "To plan effectively for the 1973-74 fiscal year and to set the appropriate priorities and objective."

"You are aware, I am sure," the letter continued, "that the Government has always considered education as one of its highest priorities. This announcement, which comes in a period of great fiscal restraint, should indicate to you our strong and continuing commitment in this area."

Hockey hobbled - - Not Hull

(By LYNN JONES)

Although we have missed a few issues, hockey being our favorite sport, we cannot let this present Team Canada mess pass without saying something. We also would state there that we highly respect the skills of Robert Marvin Hull, and really care little which league he plays for. For some years, hockey has been "minor league" in the salary field when you consider what players have realized from their owners. Only in instances such as Bobby Orr and Bobby Hull, (before his departure) has there been anything approaching the price tag they merited, comparing them with super stars in football and basketball especially.

Team Canada and Hockey Canada have only one thing in common, their portion of the name. It should really read (Team approved by American NHL owners) rather than any Canadian official saying that he can draft the 35 or so best players in Canada; for after all, the handful who cannot qualify because of foreign birth, hardly detract much from the talent calibre. One or two might help, but they realize that national pride is supposedly the thing at stake here.

We should face up to the fact that our hockey players have become like most other commodities in this country - "exports." We have no quarrel with the contractual situations, regardless of league. Professionals in any sport, except Curt Flood, live with the fact they may be wheeled and dealt like any other commercial product. Were there no reserve clause (which binds a man to a team for life unless traded or retired) things would be a horrible mess.

National games and teams pose a different issue. Managers of four Canadian arenas stand to make a potful for the four nights there would not have been games played. In addition, they can be virtually guaranteed a sold out house, plus huge television rights to be split somewhere.

This then is a MONEY game, not really a HOCKEY game. Maybe the jealous American owners (11 at last count) are afraid that by allowing one player, who has had the business fortitude to accept the most lucrative opportunity offered, they might be jeopardizing their players. We hardly feel Hull would go to camp to try and persuade others to follow his trail. He might do it elsewhere, but we doubt there. And let's not kid anyone, when this contract with the NHL bit was included the owners were aware there was a good likelihood that the other league would be mobile.

As usual, we are back in the political lap where we have been with Bunny Ahearne and Avery Brundage before. They have called all the turns until now, and probably only capitulated this year, because the Russians have no where to go but up, and whether they could compete in future world or olympic games probably didn't matter that much to them. With 200,000,000 people it wouldn't be hard to get another team.

Knowing the political involvment other countries have with their national teams, except for the USA and us, there should have been some government involvment from the beginning, to guard against such things as have arisen. It's all very well for Prime Minister Trudeau to send telegrams "urging" knowing full well the contents can be ignored. Had he or health minister John Munro stated when the deal was signed, that his department (under which the CAHA is given grants) would approve such a move only if the selection were open to any Canadian-born player, it certainly would have given the series much more prestige, and possibly forestalled the situation which has arisen.

With or without Bobby Hull, Team Canada can deal adequately with Russia. It is the manner in which he is excluded (at least now) that should raise fans' ire. Maybe the same number of letters to Clarence Campbell and Hockey Canada as receive the game each week in the season, would show these so-called sports officials that others do care.

Young Voyageur program

More than 1000 Ontario Secondary School students will visit seven Canadian provinces this summer under the Young Voyageur program, Education Minister Thomas Wells said last week.

Student groups of 21, accompanied by two teachers, will spend up to nine days on each visit. Communities to be visited include Richmond and Duncan, British Columbia; St. George's Bay, Newfoundland; Pincher Creek, Alberta; Sherbrooke and Quebec City; New Glasgow and Caledonia, Nova Scotia; Campbellton and Fredericton, New Brunswick and Elrose and Rockglen, Saskatchewan.

Travel costs will be paid by the Federal Government while other costs will be shared by the Federal Government and the Ontario Ministry of Education. The Ontario students will be billeted in homes in the communities they visit.

Mr. Wells said the program's objective is to provide students with the opportunity to gain a better understanding of the life style of other young Canadians. They also gain first hand knowledge of the educational, industrial, political and cultural achievements of other parts of Canada, he said.

Students are selected by their principal and represent all parts of Ontario. Preference is given to Grade 11 students between 15 and 17 who have not travelled extensively.

RESTAURATEUR HURT IN FRACAS

LEARNING FARMING WAYS

Daniel Henry of 45 Shellanwood Trail, Agincourt visited the farm of John Talsma, R.R. 3, Stirling as part of this year's Ministry of Agriculture and Food sponsored Urban-Rural Exchange program.

Daniel is one of four students who have been visiting farms in the area during the past week. The visiting students have been busy helping with haying operations on the farms.

An early-morning fracas on Mill Street Sunday resulted in injuries to a local man and may result in charges against one or more local youths.

Local restaurant operator John Koutsoumbis and his wife, Anna, had returned from a trip early Sunday morning, and noticing a group of young people congregated near the Mill-Front-North streets intersection, stopped to suggest that the crowd disperse so that everyone could get some sleep.

Before long, the group started rocking the car at both ends, and despite being asked to quit, didn't. John got out of the car and his wife locked the doors, then tried to drive the car to their parking spot off North Street. The bouncing effort continued and John tried to pull the people off the car, but more took their places faster than he could remove them.

After the car was parked, a scuffle ensued, and three youths attacked John, with blows being exchanged, and he ending up with a bloodied shirt, cut on his nose, and a kick in the groin. He wife was also kicked in the stomach. He claims the cut on the nose was caused by a large ring one of the assailants was wearing.

Subsequently freeing himself, John called the Ontario Provincial Police from Belleville and an officer arrived about 25 minutes later. The officer spent about an hour and a half here talking with the victims and later the assailants, who were still around.

Mr. and Mrs. Koutsoumbis both went to Belleville General Hospital for a check of their possible injuries, were examined and released.

Provincial Police Tuesday said charges were still pending, so no further information could be released.

McCaughen's new show begins

Jack and Dorothy McCaughen of Stirling, country music producers, have started a new show named Fidlar Mills Jamboree.

The name is taken from a name for the village of Stirling in use 140 years ago.

The first performance took place in Campbellford on Saturday night, July 15, when more than 600 attended.

The second performance will be a grandstand attraction at this year's Quinte Exhibition in Belleville.

Jack and Dorothy also organize groups of country music fans for bus trips to Nashville, Tenn., and Wheeling, W. Va. The next excursion will take place in October.

Until mid - 1971, Mr. McCaughen was co-producer of the Trent Valley Country Jamboree.

Club attends district picnic

Last Wednesday about thirty Senior Citizens attended the district picnic at Zwick's Island. All report a good time. The picnic was well organized and the program which was mostly of a musical nature, was much enjoyed. Each visiting club had five minutes to do their stuff. Florence MacMullen did the honors for our club and was well received. Although it was as hot as a burned offering, there were nine tables of euchre on Thursday. The prize winners were Florence Dafoe, John Kane, Iva Ayrhart and Percy MacMullen. Fanny Kane, Lil Heasman, Almina Smith and Helen Fitchett served a tasty lunch. Florence MacMullen came trotting in with a many candled birthday cake in honor of her husband, Percy, who was celebrating his big day. He's still kicking up his heels at 81.

OF COURSE

The teacher was teaching about the North-American Indians. She asked if any one could tell what the leaders of the tribes were called.

"Chiefs," said a little girl.

"Correct," said the teacher.

"Now, what were the women called?"

A smart little boy answered, "Mischiefs."

COOLING OFF AT OAK LAKE

With the humid spell of last week, many yongsters from the village made tracks for Oak Lake for a cooling dip. High humidity and sunny skies sent many people packing for cottages and park beaches. Temperatures went soaring into the high 80's each day last week with relief coming on Sunday afternoon with scattered thundershowers.

OHC will survey housing need

The Ontario Housing Corporation will conduct a survey to determine the need and demand for senior citizen housing in the Village of Stirling, the townships of Rawdon, Sidney and Huntingdon.

A research team from OHC, the Ontario Government's housing agency, will estimate the number of senior citizens living in the Village of Stirling, the townships of Rawdon, Sidney and Huntingdon, whose housing is inadequate or beyond their financial capabilities.

The demand in the area for housing on a rent-geared-to-income basis will be determined from information gathered through advertising, direct mail questionnaires and personal interviews.

The study, which begins July 28, was requested by the Councils of the Village of Stirling and the townships of Rawdon, Sidney and Huntingdon.

It will include an assessment of economic trends, growth factors and current and future housing needs in the municipality. In this regard, interviews will be conducted with such community representatives as municipal officials, businessmen, social and welfare workers and the clergy.

Senior citizens in the Village of Stirling and the townships of Rawdon, Sidney and Huntingdon, will receive letters outlining the Government's housing program and asking them if they wish to participate.

Some interested persons may not be reached by direct mail. OHC urges them to obtain a questionnaire from the municipal offices.

If the survey shows a need for senior citizens' housing, it will likely be an apartment building, although consideration is given to one-storey units which do not require stairways. Apartments for couples have a living room, bedroom, bathroom and kitchen. Apartments for single tenants have a bed-sitting room, bathroom and kitchen. All apartments are equipped with stove and refrigerator. Rent is geared to income and the minimum is $37 a month, including services.

After considering the survey report, Council can initiate the program it outlines by adopting a resolution requesting OHC to go ahead. Capital costs are shared by the Provincial and Federal Governments.

Housing on a rent-geared-to-income basis is part of OHC's Home Ownership Made Easy (H.O.M.E.) Program. Those receiving questionnaires are asked to return them as soon as possible to assist the survey team.

Rain slightly damages crops

Excessive rain has caused only a small amount of damage to crops this year in the country, reported the Department of Agriculture and Food in Stirling this week.

Farmers in the centre portion of the county are experiencing flattened grain crops due to heavy rains and accompanying winds. Douglas Tipper, Agricultural representative for the county, said that the grain is advanced enough in growth that it should be able to stand for combining later this summer.

The hay crop is good in the county this year but will be of a lower quality due to the amount of rain it has received and the lack of bright sunshine. The hay is in good volume but is being cut and baled in wet condition. The baled hay is having to dry in the barn instead of in the field.

The corn crop has made considerable growth advancements in the past two weeks. Most crops in the county have been about four weeks behind in growing. Farmers have noticed an odd growth structure, curled leaves, in some corn crops. This condition is caused by high humidity and excessive moisture.

Early new potatoes have now shown up at local markets along with fresh beans and beets. Both blue and red raspberries have also been placed on the markets.

Hydro strike

The strike by Local 1000 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees against Ontario Hydro this week became the longest labor dispute the utility has experienced, said H. J. Cox, manager of Hydro's Frankford area.

During the past weekend, management crews worked up to 24 hours, without assistance from the union, restoring power after storms, he said.

"There is some backlog in our billing function but it is expected that work on this will progress this week," he went on to say.

In Stirling, the reading of meters this month carried out by Miss Rosa Spry who is in charge of the local Public Utilities Commission office.

Ontario Hydro workers in the Frankford area have been off the job since July 10.

City youngsters learn about life on a farm

Three farms in Stirling have had city visitors this past week as part of a Ministry of Agriculture and Food sponsored Urban-Rural Exchange Program.

The farm of Mac Sharp, R.R.3, Stirling was "home" for Stephen Vanvolkinburgh of Kingston while Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Smith, R.R. 3, Stirling played host to two girls, Judy Hansen, Belleville and Lise Sinclair, Kingston. Danielle spent a week visiting the farm of John Talsma, R.R. 3, Stirling.

The exchange students arrived at their host farms last Tuesday and returned home yesterday.

Daniel Henry, like the other local exchange students, spent the week helping with regular farm operations which included haying operations and milking. Daniel is 13 years old and has hopes some day of owning his own farm, although the farm he is thinking about isn't quite the type he has been visiting. He is hoping for a snake farm as he is interested in raising snakes as a hobby.

The program, set up by the Ministry of Agricultur and Food in 1971, is designed to acquaint the urban children with the working and social life of a typical rural community. About 2,000 of urban Ontario's youth, aged 12 to 15, have applied through their schools to spend a week in July or August on a farm near their homes. All participants in the exchange are expected to be actively involved in the regular life of the host family and are treated as a member of the family.

Where desired, return visits to the urban community are arranged by the area co-ordinator for any rural hosts in the 12 to 15 year old range who are interested in sharing the learning aspects of the program.

Co-ordinator for Frontenac, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, Prince Edward Counties is Peter Dowling.

Ivanhoe couple mark their 50th anniversary

Ivanhoe's musical community leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Haggerty, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Saturday with a reception in the Ivanhoe Town Hall. All were present for the afternoon and evening anniversary reception. Mr. Haggerty's sister, Mrs. Alice Murray, New Westminster, B.C. was also present for the celebration.

A short program with Russ Sanguins, master-of-ceremonies was presented during the evening. Family and community members presented a number of songs. Congratulations were extended to Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty on their 50th wedding anniversary by Harry Lovebond on behalf of the Ivanhoe community members.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggerty concluded the evening with a few words and naturally, a couple of songs with Mrs. Haggerty at the piano.

Mrs. Haggerty has played the organ at White Lake United Church for 45 years. She started playing in churches at a very early age. At one of her first church organs, she was so small she couldn't touch the pedals. It ended with her playing and someone else pumping the organ. She played the piano with the Charlie Kammer Band from Belleville for four or five years.

Loyalist humming with activities

Construction of the college's third building continues with part of the structure expected to be ready for use in September.

And several classes continue to operate at the college. About 200 people are enrolled in the Manpower retraining division and they are attending the college full time.

The accelerated accounting program of the business division has three classes in operation, one in each of its three semesters.

The extension division is running classes in management techniques for the employees of the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Although teachers work a 10 month year and have the two summer months off, the administrative staff continues on the job with a staggered holiday schedule

Administrators expect enrolment to increase by one-third this September. Some programs are already full, especially the Early Childhood Education and Registered Nursing Assistant courses.

The Mental Retardation Counsellors course can accept about 10 more students.

The Assessment Administration course is now being overhauled so that its graduates will be able to qualify for a wider range of jobs. The name of the course is expected to become Assessment, Appraisal and Real Estate.

As a result of the addition of courses in real estate and appraisal in September, graduates may qualify not only for jobs with the provincial government, but also with banks, trust companies, mortgage lenders, appraisers, real estate firms and the federal govenment.

The college has notified potential students that more jobs are open to graduates in accountancy than to graduates of any other course taught at Loyalist.

"Accountancy is more than just number...almost anyone can master the numbers," says a letter to prospective students. "It comprises the analysis and control of industry, commerce and government."

Loyalist offers 10 of the 16 credit courses required for the RIA designation of the Society of Industrial Accountants. Comparable credits can be obtained at Loyalist for the Certified General Accountant designation.

More Postal Problems

The malaise affecting the Canadian postal system apparently is active south of the border as well.

A longtime News-Argus subscriber in Pontiac, Mich., Pearl Murray, who wrote last week to complain that she received editions of June 28, July 5 and July 12 all on the same day (July 17), included in her letter a column taken from the July 17th edition of the Pontiac Press. Written by Harold A. Fitzgerald, it reads as follows:

People are increasingly unhappy in substantial numbers over the "service" currently rendered by the Post Office Department. Apparently this new system is far from being in effect, or it isn't accomplishing what it was designed to do.

The Postal System is now a semi-independent government corporation. Postal rates were increased $1.4 billion. Now, in its new budget, the system asks for an additional $414 million.

What gives?

Where does the money go?

Twenty, thirty, forty and fifty years ago, you could subscribe for this newspaper 200 miles away on the western side of the state and receive every issue the next morning by mail. This didn't mean "usually."

It meant 100 per cent of the time.

It NEVER missed.

Today, you receive yesterday's paper by mail across the state the following day, about half the time. The balance shows up 24 hours later. This service was completely unheard of in the years mentioned above. Perhaps there has been a speed-up in first class letters. We hope so.

The exorbitant postal price increases listed above are hitting our magazines amidships. Some of them have already tossed in the sponge. They've been financially strangled. Many others are threatened and are devoting space in their own publications to explain the facts. The new Saturday Evening Post comes out four times a year and costs a dollar a copy on the newsstand. But if you have it mailed to your home, the price is $5.00 per year. They have no other choice.

When will our "new system" begin to take effect? When can we expect as good service as we had steadily in the days gone by? No one is worrying at the moment about a sudden improvement just as long as it's actually under way and isn't scheduled for the millenium.

Keeping it clean

with Bill Dodds

I was starting a roundup of pollution funnies when my wife phoned.

She was mad.

She had just opened a delivery from a large mail-order department store, and she was almost buried in brown paper.

There were eight items in the order, all in one large brown bag with a bill and a label attached. But inside the bag, each item, two boy's trousers, three pairs of socks and three sets of briefs, were individually tucked into eight smaller brown paper bags, each with a label and a card stapled to it.

But that's not all. Each pair of shorts was inside a plastic bag inside the brown paper bag.

That's a bag within a bag within a bag,..12 bags to add to our garbage.

When she phoned the store to complain, they said to write a letter. She's doing that now.

They also said they have to do things that way. Well they don't. This sort of excess packaging is one of the reasons we have a half ton o garbage per person per year to worry about.

Maybe we all should complain, every time we're loaded down with a pile of junk paper. I know I get tired of carrying it out for the garbageman every week.

Now that that's off my chest, let's see what there is on the bright side of the pollution news.

At the U.N. Conference on the Environment in Stockholm, Britain's environment mininster Peter Walker was asked about "the flood of pornography polluting the sexual environment."

He told the press: "The British Government is against pornography and for sex."

I'm glad we got that position established.

Now an item from Fink, Texas about to celebrate its eighth observance of National Fink Day. The eight residents of Fink..the population has varied over the years from three to a peak of 15.. are considering annexing the adjacent community of West Fink.

They were recently assured of assistance with their sole pollution problem from the boy scouts and veterans' auxiliary of the nearby towns of Pottsborough, Denison and Sherman.

The S

The scout and veteran recycling drives are ideal for clearing up Fink's pollution problem.. an excess of empty beer cans. Community officials indicated the problem is aggravated every year by the National Fink Day celebrations.

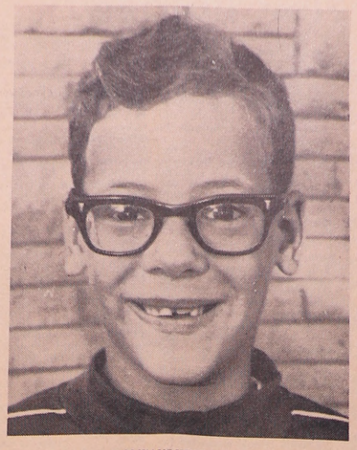
Put together plywood furniture

Have you ever looked longingly at some nifty modern furniture in a store—only to be turned off by the price tag? Well take heart, help is available, in the form of an easy-to-follow Ply*Plan for this modern sofa and chair. It's childs play to build it, and you only need two sheets of 4x8 in. fir plywood (1-½ if you use webbing for the seats).

The furniture was designed and built by a young interior designer, Leah Errington, B.I.D., specially for the Ply*Plan series produced by the Council of the Forest Industries of British Columbia.

In addition to the clean modern lines of the sofa and chair, its bolted construction makes it easy to disassemble when you move. You can just undo the bolts and use the cushions as packing. Upholstery firms will cut and cover the foam cushions to size, or you can just buy the foam and cover it yourself.

Construction is simple. You mark out the pattern on the plywood as shown in the plan diagram, then start cutting.



ALWAYS HELPFUL

Joseph's personality is just like his smile — friendly, diffident, good-natured, appealing. Joseph is eight, a slender lad with dark eyes, brown curly hair and medium complexion. His ancestry is black and white — with an Irish background.

In good general health, Joseph wears glasses for near sightedness and has a slight hearing problem. It does not hamper his listening ability and his speech is normal. Indeed, he is a talkative youngster who responds eagerly to conversational overtures.

Joseph attends opportunity class and his future education will be along non-academic lines. He works well in school, joining enthusiastically in group projects and always contributing to class discussions.

There is a TV repairman in Joseph's foster family and the lad's great delight is to have the intricacies of a television set explained to him. All mechanical things interest him and he wants to know how everything works.

Joseph is likeable and co-operative, always willing to be helpful and normally cheerful. An easy-going fellow, he gets on well with other children.

This boy needs parents who will give him a great deal of love and encouragement, but will not be demanding about scholastic achievement.

To inquire about adopting Joseph, please write to Today's Child, Box 888, Station K, Toronto. For general adoption information, write your Children's Aid Society.

An accident to you or your family may prevent you from showing up at work after vacation, St. John Ambulance suggests. Be sure to practice safety off-the-job as well as on-the-job.

Nehemiah Hubble who hewed a home out of the wilderness at Hubble Hill in 1784 and later brought his wife, Lucinda Walton and their family to Rawdon township. Mrs. MacMullen closed her message with a poem entitled, "Pioneers." The author stressed that 'our parents lived their days as God intended, in sunlit valleys close to birds and flowers, and in spite of all our vaunted march of science, their quiet lives were happier than ours. Letter to the editor

Dear Sir:

This is an open letter directed to the authorities of the Village of Stirling and my fellow-residents.

I wish it weren't necessary for me to write this letter, but it is a very disgusting thing to see this happen in our little community, to and by local people.

There is no doubt that summer nights are wonderful, and a cool breeze relieves you from the heat of the day. So I was walking along the sidewalk, on Front Street, on Saturday night, enjoying the fresh air, when a car stopped alongside and four long-haired teenagers, at least three of them drunk to the point that their eyes and face were red, opened the four doors of the car and all got out.

I won't mention what happened in the next five minutes, but I'll do so if the authorities want me to.

Then they drove away in such a way that made my eardrums almost split, (by spinning one wheel and braking at the same time so that only the wheel turns and the car doesn't move).

After a few seconds the burning rubber makes you change your mind about the quiet night and the fresh air.

Maybe we should have regular police patrols if that is what it would take to stop this type of action.

Yours truly,
A Resident.

Nature still wins

(BY LYNN JONES)

For the past quarter century especially, man has gloried in his technical achievements of various kinds. Thanks to the systems evolved during the Second World War, we stood on the brink of a technical revolution when it was over. Since then, we have built bigger dams, longer bridges, and other structures around the world in some dimension larger or better than any other.

Many of these conquests of construction were directly or indirectly related to the taming of nature in some sphere. It may have been a huge dam to provide power for an underdeveloped area; plus irrigation to turn thousands of acres into usable farm land. It may have been a bridge that made some road either more efficient or perhaps usable for the first time. And so the list goes on. There are some projects still under discussion and bogged down with political pressures, that are mind-boggling in their scope, designed to correct situations in relation to the tides of the east coast of North America.

Immense and successful as these projects have been, and likely will continue to be, small items such as the mine disaster in the United States this week, bring back to us very forcably that man does not really control as much of nature as he thinks. In this mine situation, it is felt human error may have touched off the original explosion, but what really sealed the men's fate was a series of one or more gas explosions Monday, which authorities decided would make further rescue work impossible.

Just a month ago, a storm system came along the east coast of the continent and deluged much of the northern USA and southern Canada with the heaviest rain in the memory of may in such a short time. Crews are still trying to clean up the sludge and other debris left over from this natural disaster. If you take a quick mental survey of nearly any week's news in any media, you can find serious natural problems somewhere in the world, often more than one. Even the typhoons of the far east and hurricanes of our continent are evidence that nature has not given up her control of the elements that man seems to think he is gaining in some measure. No doubt there are things we do to assist or deter certain happenings, but in the overall picture, man's effort is really very puny.

The conquest of nature, or the attempt to do so, is something man has been trying to do for many centuries. He has succeeded in some measure, but in the large picture, his success is really a very small part of it.

It should give Christian nations cause to consider that control of the environment is something in the hands of the Creator, and that man may try, his efforts are feeble. These events are part of a larger plan of which we have little if any knowledge, and should be accepted in that vein.

A FORUM ABOUT MATURE WOMEN

Dear Margaret Brookfield:

I'm 55 and have never traveled much. Most of my husband's salary goes to pay our bills. After that, there isn't much left for luxuries. Now, I have a wonderful brother who wants to send me on a seven-day cruise to Bermuda-three days at sea, the other four on land. My problem is I don't know anything about such a trip and don't know how to behave on a ship. I'll be among strangers and am worried because I'm a little on the shy side and don't make friends easily. Also, I have no idea what clothing to take, when or how to tip, how to find out abot conducted tours, etc. I'd appreciate any information you might have to offer on these subjects.

Joyce Cotten given shower

Miss Joyce Cotten was guest of honor at a miscellaneous shower held Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Omar Dracup with Misses Mary and Janette Dracup as co-hostesses.

The rooms were decorated with pink and white streamers, bells and balloons. On her arrival the bride - to - be was presented with a corsage and ushered to a special chair.

The program opened with a sing - song led by Mrs. Jim Pollock and Mrs. Gerald Clancy, followed with a reading by Mrs. Jody Sager and a music number by Mrs. Francis Sager. The ladies next enjoyed several games and a contest directed by Mrs. Gerald Malloy.

Miss Mary Dracup then read an address to Joyce recalling earlier years and Miss Janette Dracup and Mrs. Richard Dracup carried in the gifts. While Joyce unwrapped the parcels her sister Shirley fashioned a hat ornamented with the bows and ribbons.

Joyce expressed her appreciation for the shower and lovely gifts and everyone joined in singing "For She's A Jolly Good Fellow."

A dainty lunch was served and a social time enjoyed.

Others assisting with the lunch included Mrs. Ken Matthews, Mrs. Gerald Malloy and Mrs. Richard Dracup.

Keep two pairs of plus fours.

K2P OP4 . . . Keep two pairs of plus fours. Funny sentence eh? But so is "i before e . . .", or "the quick brown fox . . ."

We know that your new Postal Code isn't easy to remember, so we're suggesting that you make up sentences, or rhymes, or some other funny way to remember it.

And we'd like to add that it isn't that easy. So here's a tip.

The numerals are tough. For example, won, too, for and ate are usable. The rest are almost impossible.

Try it yourself. Or, better still, try it at your next party and see who comes up with the best sentence, or rhyme, or something.

Then, after you've awarded the booby prize, remind them to remind their friends.

B four it's two l'eight.

Get the habit.

MARSH WORLD by ANGUS SHORTT Ducks Unlimited

A — WHITETOP GRASS. A wetland grass, growing in one or two feet of water, reaches a height of four feet. Often in very dense stands along marsh edges. Not rated high as a duck food, but valuable as nesting cover and shelter for broods.
B — PHRAGMITES: CANE REED, FLAGREED. Found in marshes across the continent. Grows to 15' high, stem smooth, leaves narrow, tapering to a point. In the fall the reeds turn golden yellow. Dense stands of this picturesque reed, plumed tops waving in the wind, tower above all other marsh plants. It has no food value for wildlife but provides cover and nesting habitat.

New roof, walls and a new way of life

If you want a new way of life without leaving your own home, look into the many ways plywood can help you to alter and improve your present life style. For more space, an updated appearance, or simply for more comfort and convenience, plywood is most often the solution.

Because it is strong and rigid plywood adds strength and reduces nailing on most jobs. It's convenient size and light weight make it easily handled by one man and plywood is available in sanded and unsanded grades to meet every need. In addition PMBC EXTERIOR plywoods are manufactured with waterproof glue bonded under heat and pressure. Douglas fir and western softwood plywoods bearing the PMBC EXTERIOR edgemark will stand up to extremes of climate and use.

Sanded plywood is available in grades for fine cabinet work or grades to provide a smooth floor underlayment. Unsanded plywood is the quickest simplest way to enclose a new addition or build a new house. Plywood with a tongue and groove edge is best for roofs and floors where the tongue and groove can reduce costly and time consuming edge blocking.

Probably the greatest advantage of plywood is its versatility. From simple bookshelves through room remodelling projects to house additions, PMBC EXTERIOR plywoods can help you to something new and different. Look at the many ways plywood can help to change your way of life without leaving your own home.

There's a lesson for everyone in every near miss, St. John Ambulance notes. They indicate that sooner or later someone will be injured.

Hospital costs on the rise

"Government limits operating expenses of hospitals without limiting the ability of doctors to admit or treat," says OHA Costs Committee Chairman.

At a conservative estimate the gross operating costs of a typical general hospital in Ontario will be approximately 8% higher in 1973 than in 1972, exclusive of any new or extended programs the hospitals may undertake.

These are the conclusions of an examination of trends in hospital operating costs in Ontario carried out recently by Woods, Gordon & Co. on behalf of the Ontario Hospital Association. The report was released Monday.

Commenting on the report, Charles I. Black, Chairman of the OHA's Committee on Hospital Costs said, "The report reenforces our point that we are facing a situation where the government is limiting the operating expenses of hospital management without limiting in any way the ability of doctors to admit to or treat in the hospital.

"The government is being totally unrealistic in their policy of restraints in hospital financing. They are changing the ground rules without consultation with the people actually running the hospitals.

"Mr. McGavin, when Commissioner of Finance at the OHSC, wrote to all hospitals on May 4, telling them to limit their level of activity, that is the number of people they admit and the treatments to the 1971 level, but did not tell them how to enforce a limitation on the number of patients admitted or treatments ordered. This is under the control of the medical profession, who in turn are pressured by the public demanding the services promised by the politicians.

"In addition, government capital financing is currently inadequate to replace existing hospital buildings, facilities and equipment. To make matters worse the government is not making money available for provision of the lower cost ambulatory care facilities the government has been promising and the people have been demanding, especially in the provision of additional essential hospital out-patient and diagnostic facilities," said Mr. Black.

"I would like to re-emphasize the fact that the 8% estimate is very conservative. In every cost category Woods, Gordon are forecasting a rate of increase well below those that have been experienced in recent years."

They have assumed that, under the strict budgetary controls being exercised by the Ministry of Health, medical and administrative staff will be able to find ways of economizing that will not cause significant deterioration in service. There is a limit, however, to how far this process can continue before staff become discouraged and start to lose their dedication to the cause of good hospital service. On the basis of discussions with some hospital administrators they think that limit may not be far off.

Woods, Gordon stated that in preparing their report, their approach had been to provide an overall estimate that would represent a reasonable expectation of what was likely to happen in a "typical" hospital, based on conservative, but realistic assumptions.

Indications are that there will be no increase in the number of beds and cribs set up in 1973 as compared to 1972, that the numbers of days of care will not change significantly and that the number of patients admitted will increase at a rate somewhat in excess of the rate at which the eligible population increases. "However, this will be accommodated by a reduction in average length of stay," says the report.

The report continues that the increased number of patients will not require any increase in staff other than nursing, where an increase of 1.5% per year in paid hours will occur.

The report states that in 1971 a total of just over 7.66 millions of people in Ontario were eligible for hospital care, an increase of 9% over 1970 and that a total of slightly more than 13 million days of care were given in 1971, an increase of .8% over 1970. Hospital admissions had risen 3.9% in 1971 to a total of 1.267 millions but the average length of stay had decreased from 11 days in 1965 to 10.2 days in 1971.

It is expected that a typical hospital would continue to be operating at capacity and therefore unable to increase the days of care it will give in 1972.

At the same time, out-patient care, which has not been constrained by bed capacity, has been expanding rapidly. This trend affords evidence that the public has been increasingly turning to hospitals to obtain primary care and we expect this to continue.

Reporting on staffing trends Woods, Gordon state that since 1968 a very stable situation has existed notwithstanding increases in intensity of in-patent care as well as substantial increases in ambulatory care.
